D.C. Businessmen Rap Tax Plan

Present Tax Antiquated, But . . .

A public hearing on the controversial business license tax was closed last night after a steady line of local businessmen appeared before the council to protest the proposed ordinance.

Except for a scattering of homeowners, the overflow crowd attending the hearing at the Civic Center was predominantly from the local business community.

And they came prepared.

While all agreed the present tax on business licenses was antiquated, they vehemently opposed incorporation of the .015 per cent tax on gross sales that would fall on the shoulders of some — mainly retail stores.

City Manager David Rowe kicked off the hearing by again explaining the need for a new source of revenues to meet the annual expanding budget.

He noted that while Daly City had continued to trim away the "fat" of government the tax rate on the already overburdened homeowner had continued to rise over the past five years from $1.17 to $1.81 on $100 of assessed valuation and was threatening to drive some folks on fixed incomes out of their homes.

Rowe said there was only two avenues of approach to the problem of getting needed funds; either from property taxes, or sales license tax.

He said both income taxes on local workers needed an act of the Legislature, as did an increase in the sales tax.

"We are looking for a source of revenue that is equitable to all factions of the city — homeowners and business alike," Rowe said earlier.

Coast City Manager Masonheimer Resigns

Recreation Director Bob Toole Quit Last Week

By FRANK LaPIERRE
Post-Times Writer

Pacifica City Mgr. Clarence W. (Bill) Masonheimer handed in his resignation Monday, slightly more than a week after the city's recreation director, Bob Toole, quit his post.

According to reliable sources in the Coastside city, Toole was asked to resign by Masonheimer for "overspending" his recreation budget.

City officials quickly emphasized there was no "hanky panky" attached to either resignation.

In his letter to the council Masonheimer, who had been sick for several months with a recurring cold, cited ill health as a determiniing factor in the resignation.

But it was an ill-kept secret that the city manager was blamed by some council members for his lack of knowledge of what was going on inside Toole's Park, Beach and Recreation Department.

Mayor Nick Gust last night named Asst. City Mgr. James Swayne as acting city manager. Gust praised Masonheimer's work with the city council over the past 3½ years as a "team effort." He did not allude to a passage in Masonheimer's letter of resignation which said, "Thank you for your support in some very trying times."

Swayne thanked the mayor and the council for his temporary appointment.

Saturday morning the Pacifica Council went behind closed doors to discuss a personnel problem at 7:30 a.m.

After some two hours they emerged, closed-mouthed about the proceedings.

The resignation is effective August 1.

Masonheimer had been the city manager of Pacifica since leaving the Sunnyvale firm of Griffenhagen, Kroeger and Associates in 1967. The 52-year-old Masonheimer had previously been the city manager of Watsonville and executive assistant

Civic Center In Daly City Wins Honor

The Daly City Civic Center captured top honors at the San Mateo County Development Association Second annual Environment Awards dinner last week.

Neo-classic in design, the impressive structure beat out several other county government structures for the first place plaque.

In accepting the award for the city, Mayor Bernard (Bud) Lycett pledged to hang the coveted plaque in a prominent place in the lobby of the Civic Center.

In second place was the South San Francisco public library, while in third spot honors went to the Burlingame City Mall.

More than 450 persons attended the event at the Le Baron Hotel in Burlingame Friday.

One speaker said the county's industrial and commercial enterprises had contributed much

D.C. Courthouse Closed By County

In a decision sure to have political repercussions, the County Board of Supervisors Monday killed all plans for a county government center in Daly City and voted to move the Daly City branch of the Municipal Court back to South San Francisco.

Supervisor Robert St. Clair, a resident of Millbrae but a former mayor of Daly City, fought a valiant but losing battle to keep the court in Daly City.

"Daly City is not a jerkwater town any longer," he protested. "It certainly would be bad judgment on our part to say the court is no longer needed there without having some report from the court to substantiate it."

The issue came up as the board considered a $5 million capital projects program for 1970-71 as part of a total $155 million county spending program proposed for the coming fiscal year. The specific item was a $1 million appropriation for addition to the courthouse in South San Francisco, providing space for three more courts and various county offices.

St. Clair questioned what use the courtrooms would be put to and when it became apparent that the other supervisors intended that Judge Charles Becker move back to South San Francisco from Daly City to make use of one of the new courtroms, he protested:

"But that's not the policy of this board."

"I move we change the policy, Supervisor James V. Fitzgerald said.

St. Clair was reminded that the city has served notice on the county that it must move Judge Becker's court out of the old city hall so that the space there can be used for a library. The supervisor said he had been told by Daly City officials that they have changed their minds about wanted the space to be vacated.

"They are not going to throw us out," St. Clair insisted.

He said Daly City officials had re-evaluated their position after it became clear that the county could not afford to go ahead with plans for a county government building in the Daly City Civic Center.

Supervisor Gerald F. Day commented that "fragmentation" of the court resulted in "needless duplication."

"If anybody should be fighting for the court in Daly City, it probably should be me," said Chairman Jean Fassler, in whose district most of Daly City lies. "But I certainly wouldn't do it at such a tremendous cost to the taxpayers."

"In addition to being costly," Mrs. Fassler declared, "the court in Daly City has not given the service the board had hoped and has not resulted in any substantial increase in convenience to the residents of the area."

The board voted 4 to 1 to move the court out of Daly City, with St. Clair casting an emphatic No vote.

The vote was also 4 to 1 against approval of the $1 million appropriation for the South San Francisco addition. Henry P. Tarratt, county director of

A Planned Development Wins Okeh

Following a unanimous recommendation of the planning commissioners, San Bruno councilmen Monday nodded approval to rezoning 12.4 acres from multiple residential to planned development.

Councilman Dick Griffith was a lone dissenter in the vote that allows developer Water Beeson to construct a 430-unit complex just south of Junipero Serra Freeway and east of Crestmoor Drive. Under multiple residential he could have built up to 544 units.

Griffith read a prepared statement of objection which in essence said that any zoning that will bring more density into the city cannot be supported by him.

One other voice of concern emanated from the county, through Ralph Shaw, director of parks and recreation for the county.

Shaw, in a letter to the council, indicated concern that the original intent, if the planned development were approved, would mean the elimination of large oak trees that overhang Crystal Springs Road because of widening the road to the city's required 40-foot road width.

"We're concerned with the effect this would have on the county park (next to San Bru-

Young Driver Escapes Injury

A CAR driven by 16-year-old Michael Jones of 12 Marshall Way, Daly City, came to a stop at 4:30 p.m. Monday inside the garage of the Harry Farnlacher home at 1604 Sweetwood Drive in Broadmoor Village. What set the incident apart was the fact that the late-model sedan had entered the garage from the side, and was a total wreck. Highway Patrolman Ralph Tornatore said the car was going too fast when it rounded a curve on Washington Street. It left the road, crossed a lawn and crashed through the side of the garage. The young driver was uninjured, the officer reported.

VERGEER'S LAST MEETING

San Bruno's City Manager Gerard Vergeer Monday night sat in on his last city council meeting in an official capacity.

Mayor Neil Christal read a resolution which recognized Vergeer's "fine, faithful, exemplary service," and "regrets" on his decision to retire.

"He's a rare breed with morals of the highest and integrity beyond reproach," said Christal.

Vergeer's response was that "it takes cooperation of people working together to achieve the objectives to which we alluded over the years."

Passive Approach

Noise Struggle By San Bruno Council

By BOB PETERSON
Post-Times Writer

San Bruno councilmen Monday night again struggled to find the best method of doing something about noise abatement at San Francisco International Airport.

The end result was to advise City Atty. Joe Galligan to contact South San Francisco City Atty. John Noonan regarding that city's recent proposal to file a law suit.

Councilmen also indicated a need to follow a more passive approach suggested by Councilman Maurice Hamilton, to verbally and through letters use persuasion to change flight routings.

Mayor Neil Christal first broached the subject of jet noise, noting that planes have recently changed their flight patterns over the city.

He pointed out the city has received a letter from the national organization established to suppress jet noise, called National Organization to Insure a Sound-controlled Environment—

Christal said since the council is preparing to adopt the annual budget, and if the city were to join this organization, action should be taken soon.

It was Councilman George Corey's suggestion to have Galligan get together with Noonan, "and possibly include Millbrae," to see what approach to take to do something about the problem.

South San Francisco councilmen have given Noonan 30 days to come up with what he considers a proper and adequate lawsuit, since Noonan indicated distaste for a class action lawsuit suggested by Councilman Frank Mammini.

Hamilton told fellow councilmen he and Don Risso, then manager of the chamber of commerce, had been successful in changing routings and liminating traffic flights "simply by persuasion."

He said, "The same thing can be done here. Let's send them a letter and tell them of the problem and follow up as necessary."

According to Hamilton, the biggest problem is expenditure of money by the airlines. He said pressure should be put at the federal level to force airlines to lower the noise level.

"It is better than jumping into lawsuits," said Hamilton.

Christal agreed with this approach, adding, "We should fol-

Serramonte Sign 'Logo' Not Approved

The Daly City council breezed through a regular agenda Monday prior to opening the public hearing on the proposed business license tax.

For the second time in less than a month the council upheld a decision of the City Planning Commission to deny approval of a "logo" included on an illuminated sign outside Macy's auto center at Serramonte.

The Planning Commission noted that such "logos" were in violation of the existing policy of the center and ordered its removal. The council agreed.

In other action, the council:

—Set July 27 for a public hearing on the proposed amendment to the city zoning law concerning establishment of cemetery zoned lands.

—Filed an opinion of the State Public Utilities Commission regarding new electric generating plants and certain electric transmission facilities.

—Accepted a deed of easement from the Crocker Land Company for a portion of Crocker Boulevard within the city.

—Passed a resolution declaring intent to vacate certain streets in the BARTD station area.

S.S.F. Plans Beautification Of Four Entrances To City

Four of the six entrances to the city of South San Francisco are scheduled for beautification, but possibly not with the same motif as the two completed ingresses.

Already completed entrances are at West Winston Manor and Avalon Park.

Mayor Patrick Ahern said he wanted all entrance beautification programs to be the same, until he was told the two already have been completed, both different.

According to a report of landscape specialist John Hoffman progress continues on the other four.

Anthony Guzzardo has been instructed to incorporate the entrance sign into his landscaping work on Westborough Boulevard at the Skyline Boulevard intersection into the city. This will include lighting the sign as was done at the two completed installations.

At the El Camino Real entrance at the San Bruno city limits, David Mayes has been instructed to include the entrance sign, lights, etc. in his landscape plan from the San Bruno city limits to Arroyo Drive.

An Airport Boulevard at Brisbane city limits project includes construction of a median island between Butler and Randolph Avenues.

Following councilmen's earlier instructions, Hoffman notified Kirker, Chapman and Associates that the city accepted their proposal to provide engineering for the project.

As soon as they complete drawings for the median island, Hoffman will prepare a land-

Apartments In Pacifica Denied

The Pacifica City Council Monday voted unanimously to deny an amendment which would have allowed 45 apartment units near the Fairmont Planned Community.

The action met with the loud applause of an overflow audience, almost half of which were from the Fairmont Community.

The argument which seemed to sway the five council members was put forward by Edward Serres, attorney for the Fairmont Improvement District. Turning an argument an attorney with the apartment applicants used about "what apartments would do for Pacifica," Serres asked the councilmen to consider "What Fairmont is doing for Pacifica."

And then he named some of the things. A $29,000 park donated by Fairmont residents with all the labor donated by them, a $10,000 recreation site, about $5,000 in other, park sites and another $3,500 budgeted for a new park in the area.

Serres cited the hardship in

D.C. Businessmen Admit Tax Plan Antiquated, But—

ion member Art Colman kicked off the hearing with a 22-minute outline of his organization's feelings on the proposal.

He noted the attendance at the hearing included large and small businesses alike and commented "they have been drawn into unity because — until tonight — their views, their advice, their assistance to help make this city viable, forward-looking and self-sustaining had not been requested."

Others made the same complaint regarding the city's failure to contact them earlier on the matter.

Rowe noted in previous talks on the matter before local civic groups that his staff had been studying the proposals for some two years.

"We ask why if this (tax) has been under study for two years did (Rowe) not make an effort to talk to those who will be affected by it?" Colman said, adding "How extensive did he really check the effect in other communities around us with similar ordinances?"

Several persons appearing before the council indicated that the proposed Daly City tax was considerably higher than those of surrounding communities, including San Francisco.

Colman said his association is determined to help hold the line on property taxes and "we stand ready to accept the burden of increased taxes, if it is on an equitable basis that is fair to all."

He felt the proposed ordinance was neither fair nor equitable.

What bothered most businessmen was the gross receipts section of the ordinance which would jump some stores from the current $18 per year to more than $9,000.

Supermarket owner Robert Wong, himself a Daly City Personnel Board Commissioner, called the proposal "discriminatory' and explained the slim margin of profit markets operated on.

In a breakdown on the subject, Wong showed where a store grossing $3 million annually would make a net profit of $45,000 and would have to pay the city $4,500 in gross receipts taxes.

Prices would have to be jumped by $300,000 to make up the margin of profit, Wong said.

This would be passed on to local consumers.

"Gentlemen, you're asking me to share ten per cent of my profits with you. At that rate I'll have to go on a rice diet," Wong explained.

Leo Musso, president of the giant QFI supermarket chain, pointed up the fact that the proposal was held up until after the April elections.

He registered his opposition to the gross sales tax and noted his store in the Serramonte Shopping Complex would be in the $10,000 plus per year category.

"I think the $18 present tax is ridiculous and I also think the $10,000 is ridiculous," Musso said.

Like others, Musso said he detected a "breech" between the city and business community and hoped this breech would not widen.

Only Al Kane, president of the Serramonte Homeowners' Association, supported the tax in its entirety and said "we do not want anymore taxes on our homes. Business taxes would be more equitable."

Some sections of the ordinance need "clarification" Ricco Lagomarsino said and he hit out at the one-half per cent per square foot tax that would be imposed on office space.

He suggested the city "figure out how much you need first. Right now it sounds like you're putting the cart before the horse. There must be another way to get revenues."

Chamber of Commerce director James Sargen agreed a new ordinance is required to produce additional revenues, but warned the proposed ordinance does not come near meeting the present or future financial needs of the city and could place the future growth of the city "in peril."

Others sounded the same warning—that "old" business would be driven from the city and new firms would not locate in Daly City because of the high tax load.

Apartment houses would fall into a different category other than a gross receipts. They would pay $30 per year plus $5 per unit over three units.

Ed King, vice president of the Doelger Corporation, said there are now some 5,000 such units in Daly City—or enough to produce $25,000.

Another 4,000 units are planned for development in the area during the next four years. Together this would net the city $40,000.

"It is the opinion of this segment of the Chamber (of Commerce) that this arbitrary $5 tax is too great and too severe at this time," King said.

He cited increasing competition from surrounding communities and continued construction on the Peninsula, coupled with the fact that Doelger's rental prices had maintained a high percentage of occupancy in the apartments.

This high occupancy rate—some 15,000 people—also reflected in local retail businesses.

If the occupancy falls, business will follow suit, he warned.

"We are willing to sit down and discuss proposed business taxes for apartments at any time with people that know our problem," King said.

Mayor Bernard (Bud) Lycett concluded the lengthy hearing after praising the "high caliber" of persons attending the meeting.

He said in his estimation none of the council had any idea of what will happen until they have had time to digest all the facts of the hearing.

Action is expected on the matter in August.

Pacifica Man Dies In Crash

A Western Airlines ramp man, 21-year-old Martin Charles Giragosian of Pacifica, was crushed to death shortly after noon June 16, when his 1970 model car, reported to be traveling at a high rate of speed on Sharp Park Road, soared into the air at a curve and struck two trees in mid-flight.

Authorities in Pacifica said the top of Giragosian's Dodge Challenger resembled the rocker of a rocking chair.

"There was no way anyone could have got out," a Pacifica police spokesman explained. It was flat.'

Police said Giragosian, who lived at 424 Heathcliff Drive, was driving on Sharp Park Road, three lanes at most points, at about 12:17 p.m.

Witnesses driving behind the victim said the Giragosian auto was traveling in excess of 65 miles an hour—"superfast," is how they described it.

no's city park), and the approach to the park," said Shaw.

He noted that this area is lined with groves of oak trees and elimination of them would "create unsightly areas," and felt the area should remain in its "natural tree-covered condition."

Shaw offered a recommendation that the road be widened to 24 feet instead of the required 40 feet so as to retain the trees. Also that a 4½-foot sidewalk be installed on the park side of the road and that parking be prohibited along the roadway.

City Engr. Leo Van Dusen noted that a 24-foot roadway would allow for adequate driving but not parking. Then as an after thought said, "There is very little real need for parking on the road."

Beeson assured the councilmen that it was not his intent to widen the road. "Our purpose is to protect trees. The project shows use of trees."

He said he was prepared to put $200,000 in escrow for the city to use judiciously in preserving the trees, putting in the necessary extension of needed sewer lines or whatever is required to beautify and enhance the area, including resurfacing of the road.

Councilman Corey made the motion to approve the rezoning and forward to the planning commissioners the Shaw letter and the additional information offered by Beeson so the commissioners could establish planned development requirements.

Councilman Ted Long sought definite conditions that the road not be widened, but concurred with the three other approving votes when Corey said there was "sufficient protection."

It was at this point that Griffith came on strong, saying that in past years city officials had been hoodwinked by Consolidated Lands, Inc., Mgr. Ernest Giesch into believing multiple zoning was necessary in this section of the city (as well as others) on the pretext that sale of apartments was essential to raise capital for development of a regional shopping center.

He chided "a docile planning commission" that went along with this reasoning "in blind faith in this entrepreneur's ability to produce such a shopping center — although more than $10,000 had been spent by the city on a master plan excluding these zonings."

Griffith's contention is that this set the stage for the apartments all through the Crestmoor area.

Masonheimer Resigns As City Manager

to the city manager of Sunnyvale.

At the time of his hiring, then-Mayor Harland Minshew (still a councilman) noted that selection of a competent city manager was extremely difficult and the council had relied on two other city managers — Gene Aiello of South San Francisco and Gerard Vergeer of San Bruno, plus the late Conrad Reisch — in making their decision.

Aiello is now city manager of Brisbane (he resigned last year from South San Francisco) and Vergeer recently decided to retire. Superior Court Judge Reisch died of a heart attack last week while hiking in Sonoma.

Masonheimer was Pacifica's second city manager, replacing Karl Baldwin, who resigned to work overseas.

In the week since Toole's resignation, the council held four closed-door meetings purportedly to discuss personnel problems.

City officials refused comment on the discussions.

Toole, at, 40, is a former major league baseball player and a veteran in the parks and recreation field. His resignation is still shrouded in mystery although he commented, after announcing his plan to resign his post and leave the city, that "more may come out later" concerning the matter.

Swayne previously served as acting city manager in early 1967 while the city sought to find a replacement for then City Mgr. Karl Baldwin.

The Daly City Civic Center is located at Nintieth and Sullivan Avenues and was designed by Haines and Tatarian, Architects, and was open in April 1967.

The structure was built under a lease-purchase plan after formation of a non-profit corporation.

blocked views and the noise apartments would impose, then said, "More seriously, it's jeopardizing the planned-development concept."

Residents of Fairmont made strong political appeals to the council, with one saying, "We'll remember you and what you do for us."

But despite the wall-to-wall crowd the meeting was generally orderly. Mayor Gust praised the group for its courtesy while wielding a stern gavel at the same time.

Attorneys for the Presbyterian Church, which owns the land, had sought to prove that the area was not large enough for a church site as originally planned, and that apartments would add to the tax base of the city.

Architect Henry C. Dow said that single-family dwellings there would have to sell for $45,000 each for the developers to clear a profit.

Tom Jenkins, attorney for the Presbyteria, said the "Church is only trying to get money back it set on land itself." He added that "The old concept of transients in apartments is no longer true . . . it's meeting a need for people."

But apparently, the $4,000 in taxes that the city stood to realize through the construction of the 45 units, did not weigh as heavily as the contributions of Fairmont or the integrity of planned development.

In making his motion to deny the amendment, Councilman Harland Minshew said, "This was planned development and if we are to maintain any integrity in our future planned development" this application must be denied.

building construction and general services, said projections show that the courts will be needed. The office space is needed immediately, he said. He called the present situation "intolerable."

"Everyone seems to forget that we don't have the money to build these palaces any time we desire," St. Clair protested.

low the other (lawsuits) too. I've never seen them (the planes) so low in the 15 years I've been here," said Christal.

Resident critic Ralph Corral of 1172 Jenevein Avenue lashed out at Hamilton's suggestion. "He's saying we should try sugar instead of vinegar. South San Francisco has tried this for years," said Corral.

"I say the traffic has been routed over our city, as Mayor Christal has noted, in an effort to quiet South San Francisco. They felt San Bruno would put up with the noise. It's time all of you (councilmen) stopped representing the airlines and represented the people of San Bruno," charged Corral.

Another resident, George Lachner of 752 Easton Avenue, pointed up unbearable noise conditions of flights over his his home.

"The only way to be successful in fighting this is to stop subsidies to the airlines and make the airlines own that airport," he said. "Tax them for the value of that land. You're not going to get one thing accomplished with San Francisco owning the land," said Lachner.

Meanwhile, San Bruno's Environmental Control Committee, still to be formally established and under the tutelage of Councilman Ted Long, is scheduled to study the problem at a meeting Wednesday night.

scape plan incorporating the sign and other beautification requirements for council approval.

The entrance on El Camino Real at Colma is scheduled to be widened at that point. Hoffman recommended, therefore, that this project be deferred until plans of the state highway department are complete.

In other landscape development, councilmen have authorized a call for bids on two projects: depelopment of Hickey Boulevard at Hilton Avenue and on San Francisco Water Department Land at Hickey Boulevard and Camaritas Avenue.

Hoffman estimated the first project to cost $5,000 for construction and $3,000 a year to maintain.

This development will continue the landscaping of Hickey Boulevard started in June of 1968 on the extension at the Daly City city limits and brought down through the Juniper Serra Boulevard intersection last year. It will bring the landscaping down to Hilton Avenue.

Estimate of the second project is $2,200 for construction and approximately $2,400 a year to maintain.

This project complies with a land use permit issued to the city by the San Francisco Water Department. The permit does not allow South San Francisco to do extensive development of the property, however.

The plan basically provides for the planting of perennial rye grass without a sprinkler system. The expectation is that it will be kept mowed but not maintained as a green lawn throughout the summer months.

Budget Meet

South San Francisco councilmen have scheduled a 7:30 p.m. budget session tonight. Areas of study will be the fire, police and building department budgets.

'Heinous' Was An Evil Word For S. S. F. Girl

The word "heinous" was just that for Connie Anderson, graduating senior at El Camino High School in South San Francisco.

Miss Anderson, who lives at 236 Sequoia Drive, finished second in the national Future Business Leaders of America spelling contest held last week at the Ben Franklin Hotel in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. She had been declared California's state champion speller recently to earn the right to compete in the national finals.

Over 100 champions from throughout the United States took part in the massive spell-off. The winning girl was from the host state. Each participating state sent three representatives to Pennsylvania. When the contest began each state's third place winner competed with his or her counterpart. As a contestant missed a word he was eliminated and the second place state winner stepped in to take over.

After two rounds California's third place winner missed a word and just six rounds later the second place winner fell to the wayside. Miss Anderson, an honor graduate at El Camino, then stood the test for 40 more rounds.

CONNIE ANDERSON

"There were just two of us left in the 49th round," the attractive Camino senior said. "That's when they asked me to spell "Heinous." I have to confess I had never remembered seeing or hearing the word before. I missed and the first place winner had to spell 'Incompetent' and it was over.

Only oral spelling was allowed. No contestant was allowed scratch paper and every letter said aloud had to be counted. Repeats or corrections were not allowed.

"We were all situated on a banquet floor in three rows of seats," she explained. "The room was filled with spectators and the pressure got to be pretty high there towards the end."

In taking the runner-up spot, Miss Anderson became the first California competitor in any subject area (speech contests were also run) to finish that high. Her five-day journey to the east was financed through business, school and community donations.

County Endorses A Daly City Mental Health Emergency Center—But It Gives No Funds

The idea of a North County regional emergency inpatient mental health center at Mary's Help Hospital in Daly City, to be shared by private and public patients, won the endorsement on Friday of the County Board of Supervisors.

The board, however, refused to include any money in the 1970-71 county budget for the project.

Dr. Howard Gurevitz, chief of the county mental health services division, was told that the program will receive the formal approval of the board if he can find the money for it elsewhere in his department's proposed $6,719,212 spending program for the coming fiscal year. He agreed to try, and report back to the board as it continues its budget hearings next week.

The board, faced with the prospect of a big tax rate increase, has been attempting during the hearings to cut down departmental requests and has been reluctant to approve any new program. The Mary's Help project, however, has been under planning for several years and some supervisors feel that the county is committed to it.

Gurevitz said the county's share of the program cost in the fiscal year would be $39,178. The amount to be transferred from another part of his budget, however, would be ten times that figure, inasmuch as the federal government reimburses the county for 90 per cent of the cost of mental health programs and the entire amount must be shown in the budget.

Supervisors said their approval would be contingent upon receipt of a 90 per cent federal staffing grant.

Gurevitz said Mary's Help Hospital has spent $500,000 of its own money to remodel a section of the facility to accommodate the mental health center. There would be 26 beds, half of which would be for private patients and half for the county's patients.

County Manager M. D. Tarshes recommended against using any county funds for the center.

"It seems inappropriate," he told the board, "to contract for beds in a private hospital when we have beds available for this purpose at County General Hospital in San Mateo."

Gurevitz said there is a need for such a facility to serve the North County and cited problems of transportation for residents of that area to County General or to Agnews State Hospital in Santa Clara County. He added that studies have shown that readmission rates go higher in proportion to the distance of a treatment facility from the area being served.

Student Suspended In Flag Incident

Joe Gettus did not graduate from South San Francisco High School on Friday along with some 400 of his classmates.

The 18-year-old honor student was suspended last month for what he considered an "indiscretion" involving the burning of several holes in a small American flag with a cigarette.

School authorities frowned on Gettus' disrespect for the flag and quickly suspended him. They would not comment further on their actions in the matter.

Gettus, himself, considered the burning incident as a "stupid, childish act" and compared it to a child playing with fire.

Several pupils spotted Gettus in the boys' locker room at the high school punching holes in the tiny flag with a burning cigarette and started an agrument. The altercation spilled into the hallway where a teacher appeared and hustled Gettus off to Dean of Boys Robert Warfiled's office.

Gettus, who describes Warfield as "an ex-veteran who likes to talk about it," said the dean explained to him about the men who had died for the flag and the respect it should command.

The student was next taken to Principal Thomas Gaffney's office where he was promptly suspended after a round of questions.

Except for physical education, Gettus has all A's and B's to his credit — along with first place in an essay contest on peace, and two other first prizes for painting and mixed media in the student art show.

Gettus doesn't think he was given a fair shake and insists he wasn't demonstrating when he burned the holes in the flag.

It was not as if he tore the flag down and burned it in the middle of the football field, Gettus explains.

He simply wanted to see how the flag looked with holes, Gettus said, because he has a friend who has an American flag full of holes hanging on his wall "and it looks pretty good.'

Although Gettus' teachers passed him, physical education instructor Mathias Medrano did not.

Record indicate the youth's attendance was less than good in his field.

And while Gettus did not graduate on Friday he will go on to Skyline Junior College for six weeks to get his needed physical education units, and hopefully, a diploma.

'Segregation' Of Latin American Students Charged

A protest that the South San Francisco Unified School District is "segregating" its Latin-American students by assigning them all to Martin School was voiced at Thursday's meeting of the county's Human Relations Commission.

Commissioner Jose Puentes said that even though South San Francisco has a Head Start program with bilingual teachers, Mexican-American students are still being assigned to the school. He said the Latin-American community plans to take the school district to court, and if further action is needed it will come to commission for aid.

Attorney Harry Bremond, who acted as commission chairman last week, said the Sequoia Union High School District is having the same problem, and claimed that the only reason Robert E. Biggs resigned as principal of Sequoia High School was because "he could not relate to the Chicano students and was under fire."

Bremond suggested the commission investigate what efforts the South San Francisco district is making to recruit bilingual teachers.

"They say they are, but I don't know where," Puentes retorted.

Commissioner Doris Dean said it appears the district is "downgrading" Spanish surname students instead of placing them at their proper level.

Puentes complained when a delegation of parents went to one school board meeting trustees refused to even allow them to speak because they "were not on the agenda." Now, he reported the Latin community is working on plans to have federal funds taken away from the district.

Puentes said that an appeal was made to the district that under the Treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo, which seceded California from Mexico to the United States, both Spanish and English should be taught in all public schools.

When trustees retorted, "How can you convince the people of California to carry out such a gigantic task?" he reported one leader pointed out that Canada requires two languages and Israel "has to deal with a hundred different dialects."

The trustee's retort, Puentes said, was, "These nations have not been able to place a man on the moon."

According to Puentes, the Latin community has been trying to accomplish something for nine months without success.

The commission endorsed a statement from the recently organized Alliance for the Integration of the Sequoia District supporting efforts to desegregate the district and five points which the district must accomplish:

"1. Must provide improved education for all students.; 2. Must keep Ravenswood open; 3. Any plan must be viewed as only a short range plan with a continuing effort to develop a long range plan; 4. Must provide inservice training to combat racism, for all students, teachers and members of the administration; 5. Must provide adequate ethnic identity within each school."

Camino High Juniors Elect

El Camino High School's sophomore class recently held elections for their junior class officers for 1970-71.

After a hard week of campaigning the candidates each gave a short speech during the sophomore assembly. Voting took place on the following day.

The office of president was taken by Mike Knowles, vice president by Marty Romero, secretary by Kim Thickstun and treasurer by Carol Henry.

The winning slate of officers campaigned on a ticket and each made it clear that their main objective is to build spirit for their class as juniors and to raise enough money to hold a fantastic junior prom.

DEATHS

ALBERT MICHALSKI

Albert Michalski, 52, of 1128 Del Solo Drive, Pacifica, died June 15 in San Francisco.

Funeral services were conducted at 8:30 a.m. Thursday from the Nauman and Lincoln Chapel by the Sea Mortuary, Pacifica, followed by a requiem mass at 9 a.m. at St. Peter's Catholic Church. Interment was at Olivet Memorial Park.

A native of LaSalle, Ill., he was a 16-year resident of the Peninsula, member of the Paintmakers Union of Oakland and the American Legion Post of Pacifica.

Survivors include his wife, Frances, son Albert and daughter, Chryl Karalius of Half Moon Bay.

D.C. Post Office Location Change

Vista Grande Station of the Daly City Post Office will be moved from its present location at 31 Bepler Street to 6025 Mission Street, at Templeton, effective July 1, Postmaster Vincent P. Murphy announced.

The new station will provide full postal services to the Vista Grande, Southern Hills and Bayshore City areas of Daly City, with modern equipment and glass enclosed lobbies in more pleasant surroundings, Murphy said.

The same telephone number will be retained at the new location.

SCHOLARSHIPS

Several North San Mateo County residents were among the 117 freshmen in the Colleges of Letters and Science and Engineering at the University of California, Davis, selected to receive Edward Frank Kraft Scholarships.

'Impressive' SSF Testimonial For Rocca

By BOB PETERSON
Post-Times Writer

Impressive seems an inadequate word to describe the testimonial dinner for South San Francisco's former mayor and councilman Andrew Rocca, held last week at the Elks Club.

Well wishes came from politicos of all stripes, both among the more than 200 persons in attendance and through telegrams.

Yet, conspicuous by their absence were South San Francisco Mayor Patrick Ahern and fellow councilmen Frank Bertucelli and William Borba. Neither did they send a congratulatory message.

The dinner was promoted and co-hosted by Councilmen Frank Mammini and Warren Steinkamp.

Principal speaker was Ned Hutchinson, Governor Ronald Reagan's appointments secretary. Also speaking was Congressman Leo Ryan, a former mayor and councilman of South San Francisco.

Hutchinson described Rocca has having the "fabric and fiber that makes this system work." He said "most of you know him better. Your personal contact makes you aware of his integrity and ability."

It was pointed out by Hutchinson that being an official of a small body carries a lot of hard work and not much glamour, or being in the spotlight, "but he (Rocca) has thrived on it. And as soon as people like him stop the selfless work of local officials, we are abdicating our right to govern ourselves."

Hutchinson said he carried a message from the governor that stressed "strengthening of government at the local level should be of the highest priority.

"By his (Rocca's) service, integrity and competence, he stands as having achieved the highest governmental service in the state," said Hutchinson.

Ryan pointed out that he has been in politics since the mid-1950's and "Andy and I were often on the opposite sides of the fence.

"A large part of what I learned about politics have been learned from a man I consider still the most public-spirited, honest, tough and hard-to-convince people I've ever met.

"Andrew Rocca is as good as any man here tonight says he is — and more," stated Ryan matter-of-factly.

"When I sat on the city council with him, I often hoped that someday I would have the chance to tell the people of this city about this man."

Ryan, pointing out that he was not speaking from a prepared text, found time to introduce Frank Spadarella, unsuccessful congressional candidate for Ryan's seat, and John Sherman, whom Ryan will meet at the polls in November. He also introduced state senate candidate Arlen Gregorio.

Once again back to his main subject, Ryan referred to the city councilman's position as being "the hardest and toughest job" there is and that Rocca "is a model for those who come after."

Ryan then presented Rocca with a resolution of commendation from the State Assembly.

Supervisor Jim Fitzgerald, in attendance along with Supervisors Bob St. Clair and Ged Day, presented the retiring councilman with a resolution of commendation from the County Board of Supervisors.

Recognition also came from the State Senate, through South San Francisco Municipal Court Judge Robert Miller. Miller said he was "standing in" for Senator Richard Dolwig.

Rocca spoke briefly, pointing out the difference between wealth and riches. "Wealth," he said, "includes the material things. Riches are the great feelings of friendship that many people have for you. And I'm probably the richest man in the whole system this evening," said Rocca.

"I know you expect me to say something about the local government. I say with regret that there hasn't been someone to steer in the right direction. Recent actions have not been for the best interest of the city," said Rocca in his familiar serious tone.

Then with his eyes sparkling and in his typical good nature, he said, "I wish you well and a happy good evening. Thank you."

Recognition also came from the state senate, through South San Francisco municipal court judge Robert Miller. Miller said he was "standing in" for Senator Richard Dolwig.

He read the commendation which included such phrasing as "one of the Bay Area's most distinguished citizens," who "demostrated superb leadership," and "contributed sound judgment, knowledge and devotion to community affairs."

Miller noted that the message was "unanimously adopted by the state senate and appropriately framed."

Co-host Steinkamp read several messages of congratulations from persons unable to attend. These included one from Governor Reagan for "best wishes for many years of pleasure in retirement," from San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto with "greetings and best wishes," from County Supervisor Jean Fassler and from Judge F. Jose de Larios for "a much deserved testimonial."

Councilman Mammini, in opening the program, quoted from a list of the necessities needed to live long in politics.

These included the hide of a rhinoceros, the memory of an elephant, the persistence of a beaver, the native friendliness of a mongrel pup, the heart of a lion, the stomach of an ostrich, the humor and ubiquity of a crow.

"But all of these combined are not enough, unless when it comes to matters of principle, you also have the stubbornness of an army mule," concluded Mammini.

"And the three years I've served with Andy showed he has every one of these attributes, and he excelled in the matters of principle."

Mammini also presented Rocca with "a small token of appreciation," a portable television set.

Rocca spoke briefly, pointing out the difference between wealth and riches. "Wealth," he said, "includes the material things. Riches are the great feelings of friendship that many people have for you. And I'm probably the richest man in the whole system this evening," said Rocca.

"I know you expect me to say something about the local government, I say with regret that there hasn't been someone to steer in the right direction. Recent actions have not been for the best interest of the city," said Rocca in his familiar serious tone.

Then with his eyes sparkling and in his typical good nature, he said, "I wish you well and a happy good evening. Thank you."

Parking Time Is Increased

Parking limitations have been increased on several San Bruno streets.

Councilmen, on the recommendation of the Traffic Safety Committee, approved two-hour parking on the 400 to 700 block of San Mateo Avenue and three-hour limits on the city's downtown parking lots.

The Chamber of Commerce appealed to the Traffic Safety Committee for the increased time limits.

A Westmoor Post For Paul Perez

Paul Perez, Serramonte High School vice-principal, has been named assistant principal for counselling and guidance at Westmoor High School in Daly City.

Perez, former Jefferson High School District Work Experience Education Program supervisor, fills a vacancy created by the death a few weeks ago b Richard Hart.

The district is accepting applications for Perez' former position at Serramonte.

In other appointments, Rudie Tretten, assistant principal for guidance at Jefferson High School in Daly City, was appointed director of the new, federally-funded Teacher Leadership Development Program.

To replace Tretten, the board named former American Federation of Teachers, Local 1481, President Dion Dubois, currently a Jefferson counselor.

The board of trustees approved the appointments following an executive session.

From that same closed meeting came approval of six San Francisco State College teacher interns as participants in the Teacher Leadership Development Program. In addition, a group of teacher aides from Skyline College are expected to be involved.

The district received written confirmation of a $105,000 allocation for one-year project this week from Washington, D.C.

S.S.F. Gains Added Land

South San Francisco has picked up an additional eight-tenths of an acre of land in the Westborough section of the city for recreation purposes in a land swap approved by city councilmen.

It was back in 1968, according to City Atty. John Noonan, that the city obtained six acres of land in Westborough 4, a GMT Investors (land developer) parcel.

Noonan said that later GMT determined that more land should be dedicated and that if the city would return the six acres, GMT would dedicate a 6.8-acre parcel. The city attorney said there was nothing lost market-value-wise in the exchange.

'No Decision' On Closing

Assemblyman Carl Britschgi (R-Redwood City) Friday said that there has been no final decision on the matter of closing the South San Francisco Unemployment Insurance office at 215 Miller Avenue.

Britschgi had protested the rumored closing to Lucian Vandegrift, secretary of the State Department of Human Resources Development and was advised that no final decision has been made in the matter.

D.C. Chamber Of Commerce Hears Tax Possibilities

Daly City City Manager David Rowe told a general membership meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Thursday the city "is not married" to the proposed business license tax law.

Thus, he left the door open for negotiations between local merchants and the city on the proposed law which is aimed at dramatically increasing revenues from the business community.

Rowe painted a grim picture of what would happen to Daly City homeowners unless the council finds some new source of revenue to meet the expected all-time high budget this year.

Present budget figures are in the neighborhood of $8 million, including expected wage increases, water and related operating costs for the year.

"We must weigh what effect a property tax increase would have on owners," Rowe said. "In general, we are seeking a tax reform in Daly City."

The council is expected to trim the budget by some $500,000, or better. But Mayor Bernard (Bud) Lycett explained the city pulled in its belt some time ago and doesn't have that much "fat" to trim.

He said it is likely the difference between last year's budget and the upcoming budget will be some $425,000.

This would require an estimated 30 cent increase per $100 of assessed valuation on the tax rate—already at $1.81.

"We will be cutting into the already low level of service if we try to cut back too far," Rowe said.

Presently the council is negotiating with seven employees' groups and will have hopefully reached agreement with them by June 29.

The budget and tax rate must be set by mid-August and sent to the county for billing.

Where the extra monies to fund the budget come from prompted the city to take the bull by the horns and come out whth what one merchant called "a jet plane proposal after years of riding a horse."

Rowe said the city was willing to listen to any alternate proposals made at the June 22 public hearing on the subject. The meeting, to be held at the Civic Center Council Chambers, is scheduled to get under way at 8 p.m.

Grocery store owner Robert Wong, who would fall into the "gross receipts" category if the law passes, pointed out that the tax appears to discriminate against "big" business while getting only a token fee from "small" business.

Wong asked Rowe if the tax "wasn't complicitory against big stores?"

The tax whould be equally applied to large and small stores alike, Rowe replied.

Young Adults Are Awarded Certificates

A new training program in dietary, laundry, and janitorial jobs, is permitting some young adults to move out of sheltered special education classes and into the world of employment.

Six young adults received certificates of graduation from Supervisor James V. Fitzgerald recently in ceremonies at Crystal Springs Rehabilitation Center, marking completion of the four-month program.

They include Gary Arbasetti and Ralph Rodriguez of South San Francisco; Robert Carbullido of Belmont; Jo Ann Dhuyvetter of Daly City, Michael Pennycuff of San Bruno; and Harold Scott of East Palo Alto.

The program was undertaken for the first time last year at the initiative of PARCA—Parents Association for Retarded Children and Adults—who personally funded the first session for six young adults, five of whom are presently employed.

This year the College of San Mateo agreed to pick up the program and pay the salary of its teacher, Bernice Mackay, of San Bruno. PARCA parents are still paying to bus young people to Crystal Springs from throughout the county, Superintendent Einor Nordby said.

Trustees Reject Jeff Workshop

Trustees of the Jefferson High School District rejected an administration proposal to conduct an August 24-28 group leadership workshop.

The proposal, submitted on the administration's behalf by Ernest Ribera, assistant superintendent for instruction, called for such inservice training by selected members of the district faculty.

It would have involved training in group listening, planning and problem solving.

The vote was split. Trustees Jim Cooper and Ed Solomon voiced approval but Trustees Elio Fontana and Jane Powell voted in opposition. Board President Al Teglia broke the tie with a "no" vote.

In other business, the board:

—Accepted bid from Speedspace Corp for one four-classroom portable at an annual lease price of $18,742.

—Received a letter from Max Rafferty, State Superintendent of Instruction, reminding educators that "pupil smoking or even possession of tobacco anywhere on the school premises is illegal."

—Authorized 18 faculty members to teach outside the fields listed on their Standard Teaching Credentials.

—Learned that the district ratio of administrative to 100 non-administrative personnel as of January 1 was 18.5, contrasted with 17.0 the previous January.

Freeway 101 Problems Discussed

The only city that officially made its wishes known at a freeway design hearing held Wednesday in San Bruno City Hall council chambers was Millbrae, which is not directly affected by the project.

Under the direction of the Division of Highways, the hearing concerned the problems and possible solutions now under consideration for the modification and improvements to Route 101 (the Bayshore) due to the construction of Interstate 380. Construction is expected to begin soon.

Involved is the stretch of roadway from South San Francisco's Grand Avenue on the north, down and including the San Bruno Avenue interchange, south to and including the airport interchange above the Millbrae border.

Millbrae Mayor William Glang noted that even though the section in question is not in his city's boundaries, it is in the city's "sphere of influence." He said the main concern of Millbrae was to make sure Rollings Road would be extended to the north through the Millbrae industrial area.

No South San Francisco councilmen were represented. However, City Mgr. Tom McKenzie was on hand long enough to deliver a letter he prepared at the councilmen's request.

Leo J. Trombatore, deputy district engineer with the Division of Highways district office in San Francisco, and presiding officer, read the letter.

It stated in essence that the South San Francisco councilmen have not had an opportunity to review the alternative plans prepared by the highway department, which would include the extension to the east involving South San Francisco's industrial properties, and therefore, "not in a position to comment."

South San Francisco, incidentally, recently hired the firm of Peat, Marwick, Mitchell and Company of San Francisco for $800 in assisting the city "to analyze the plans for the extension of Interstate Route 380."

As for the City of San Bruno, which will be the most directly affected, Councilmen Ted Long said the council has not acted officially but he would like to comment personally.

He said he favored all that could be done to get a rapid transit system hookup to the airport and was opposed to the proposed Bay Front Freeway.

San Bruno Major Neil Christal was in attendance at the beginning of the meeting.

The county was represented by County Engineer Don Wilson who said the county favors an extension to the east and the rapid transit.

Dale Fearne, assistant general manager of the San Francisco International Airport planning and development group commended the Division of Highways on its "practical and honest approach."

Fearn noted that the airport has just completed its first phase of interior roadwork with five lanes of traffic in and out. He said the construction is designed to connect with the Bayshore and Interstate 380 extension directly to the terminal.

According to Fearn the airport favors the design which includes a rapid transit overpass because "rapid transit is something that will be a necessity. He also favored the design which includes a viaduct down the divided strip of an access road.

Fearn felt the north access road to the airport essential and also didn't want highways people to rule out the possibility that Route 87 (Bay Front Freeway) would be eliminated as is now proposed in the State legislature.

He said the north end of the airport is expanding "quite rapidly" and the north access would aid this development.

Fearn said the roadway would take as much land from the airport as it would from South San Francisco but both entities would benefit.

Also speaking was Ted Showalter, representing United Airlines. His presentation favored the design that would be beneficial to the shop area where United is doing $8½ million in new construction. He requested that sidewalks at Bayshore and San Bruno Avenue be retained "for those shop area workers desiring to use them. I also request adequate detours at the time of construction," said Showalter.

Trombatore assured that design features will not be finalized until after consideration of all "relevant information developed as a result of the hearing" He noted also that written statements and exhibits may be submitted "for the record" until June 29 to the district office in San Francisco.

At the beginning of the hearing Assistant District Engineer in charge of design Charles A. Pivetti gave a slide presentation.

The presentation pointed out that traffic volumes on Bayshore, now 146,000-a-day, will increase to 182,000 by 1990.

During the same period, and with the new construction, 1970 traffic patterns of 68,000-a-day at the airport, 35,000-a-day west on San Bruno Avenue and 20,000-a-day east on San Bruno Avenue will change in 1990 to 90,000, 11,000 and 17,000-a-day respectively. Also a new airport shop road would pick up 22,000-a-day and connector roads would carry 14,000.

The advent of the jumbo jet, according to Pivetti, will increase the traffic flow. He said the 33,000 passengers a day at the airport is expected to double in the next five years.

Alternative design concepts include the rebuilding of Bayshore completely with ground-level roads; complete reconstruction of the San Bruno and Seventh Avenue interchange, with the same connections to Bayshore and the overcrossing widened to six lanes; placing of high voltage wires underground; and new ramps to the airport shop area, which would accommodate a freeway extension to the east.

Pivetti pointed out that bridges would be of the type seen on Junipero Serra, with curved sides, and the aerial transit structures would pass through the interchange.

Noise and automobile emissions also were considered. The research department in Sacramento indicated there would be less automobile noise because of smoother traffic flow. This same smoother flow supposedly will also lessen auto emissions, too.

District right-of-way agent William Kenney gave a brief report, saying only nine land parcels are involved in the project and five of these are under public ownership.

Of the four private ownerships, none contain residences or real commercial property and only one industrial parcel could be affected by a proposed alternate, necessitating relocation. It is a Shell Oil Company bulk plant, according to Kenney.

Trombatore said all information discussed at the hearing, plus whatever is submitted in the next ten days, will be available for public inspection at 150 Oak Street, San Francisco.

San Bruno Boy Hit By Vehicle

An 11-year-old San Bruno boy was in good condition "and probably be going home today," at Peninsula Hospital after being struck by a vehicle Saturday.

Stephen Burkham of 859 Mills Avenue was hit by a vehicle driven by Otto Steward of 2701 San Bruno Avenue. He sustained a strained back.

Police said young Burkham was riding his bicycle across the middle of San Bruno Avenue when struck by the Stewart vehicle, which was traveling east on the street and unable to stop in time.

Italian Catholic Scholarship To Jeff Student

Baumsteiger D.C. Lions President

Walter Baumsteiger was installed as president of the Daly City Host Lions Club during ceremonies at the Olympic Club at Lakeside Saturday.

Superior Court Judge Frank Blum swore in the slate of new officers during the Thirtieth installation dinner dance of the club.

Outgoing President McRobert Stewart praised the members of the club for making his job "that much easier" during his term of office and presented various members with certificates for their contributions to the Lions organization.

Attending the dinner, in addition to Lions members, were civic and political dignataries from throughout the county, including Supervisor (Mrs.) Jean Fassler and Daly City Councilman Frank Pacelli.

Master of ceremonies for the event was Lion Frank Spadarella.

The new officers for 1970-71 are: President Baumsteiger; Gordon Cartwright (first vice president); David Gehre (second vice-president); Nicholas Choppelas (third vice president); Ira Neville (secretary); Edward Devincenzi (treasurer); Jack Giusto (tail twister); Paul Perez (club greeter), and; Gordon Reynolds (lion tamer).

Board of directors are Joe Rohl, Eugene Gamache and Edward Tomasello.

Color slides of project activities during the annual Lions' International conference in Lake County were shown at the conliusion of the dinner.

Mrs. Kasper Seated At S.M. Meet

Mrs. William Kasper of South San Francisco was installed as president of the San Mateo County Past Presidents' Assembly when that group met for luncheon Friday in the East Winchester Room of the Villa Chartier.

Mrs. Kasper was installed by Mrs. James L. LoCoco, a past president of the assembly and of the Belmont Woman's Club.

She is a past president of the South San Francisco Woman's Club and South San Francisco's Iota Unit of the California State Association of Parliamentarians.

Taking office with Mrs. Kasper were Mesdames Charles Milly, first vice president; Howard A. Harris, second vice president; J. L. Jonas, treasurer; Joseph Barca, financial secretary; Mabel Farmer, recording and corresponding secetary; Edward D. Murphy, Parliamentarian; Edas, C. R. Grover, and William H. Ryer, directors.

Mesdames James M. Asbell, J. L. Jonas, and J. F. Robertson served on the nominating committee.

Mrs. Ray Lones of San Carlos is a new club member.

The meeting is open to past presidents of member clubs of the California Federation of Woman's Club.

St. Veronica's Women's Club Seats Officers

Mrs. Fred (Pauline) Glesener, newly elected president of St. Veronica's Women's Club, was recently installed at candlelight ceremonies during Holy Mass at the parish church in South San Francisco.

Mrs. Glesener has been a resident of Westborough in South San Francisco for the past six years and is the mother of six children. She has served on both the school board and Women's Club Board and has been active in CCD. Mr. and Mrs. Glesener also have been active in the Christian Family Movement.

Other members of St. Veronica's Women's Club installed in this ceremony were the Mmes. John Boland, Leo LaRocca, Allen McVeigh, James Hardy — first, second, third and fourth vice presidents, respectively; Robert Bragg, recording secretary; Vincent Lombardi, treasurer; Robert Flickinger, corresponding secretary, committee and circle chairmen.

Past presidents of the Women's Club also attended.

Chairman Named

Alan F. Culbertson of San Carlos, is the San Mateo County Boy Scout chairman for "Back to School Night," September 29. The appointment is the first step in building an organization which will be responsible for signing up some 2,000 boys for Scouting on a single night at some 160 San Mateo County schools.

SENIORS

The Class of 1971 of El Camino High School elected Bob Murray, president; Jim Shirashi, vice president; Ann Katz, secretary, and Candy Boblitt, treasurer.

Forced busing is not wanted even by the majority (66%) of our Black Community let alone the White Community in the survey taken by the Sequoia Union High School Board themselves. The present law does not require forced busing. The decision to adopt a forced busing plan is purely arbitrary on the part of the School Board. None of the 3 proposed plans is wanted by the vast majority of all parents asked to date. Anonymous members of the County School Staff have proposed a 4th plan which would be to have Ravenswood High School become a "Model School" by increasing the number of teachers to have only 10 or 20 students per teacher as opposed to the normal 27 to 30, and at the same time allow all students who voluntarily wish to be bused for any reason to do so.

One third of the Black parents do not object to forced busing, therefore many of their children may wish to be bused.

Since no comprehensive poll has been taken please indicate your feelings below and the results will be submitted to the Sequoia Union High School Board.

My opponent, Mr. McCloskey, has voted for Federal Funds to force busing of school children. (91st Congress Roll Call #339, Dec. 18, 1969, and Roll Call #36 and #37, Mar. 3, 1970. Check with your local library in the Congressional Quarterly.)

Walsh-Taylor Marriage At St. Peter's

St. Peter's Church in Pacifica recently was the setting for the marriage of Mary Ann Walsh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Walsh and Randy Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Shermon Taylor, both of Pacifica. A reception followed at the American Legion Hall at Rockaway Beach.

Escorted to the altar by her father, Mary Ann chose a white lace over satin A-line Empire gown and carried a bouquet of stephanotis and baby roses.

Maid of honor Dorothy Walsh, Mary Ann's sister, wore a yellow lace over satin gown and carried white and yellow daisies. Similarly attired were bridesmaids Alice Schultz, and Ann Gonzales, the bride's cousin, and junior bridesmaid, Eileen Walsh, another sister of bride, and flower girls Sharon Brown and Alice Gonzales.

Michael Williams served as best man and usher duties were shared by John Taylor, the bridegroom's brother, and Joseph Walsh, the bride's brother. Kenneth Williams served as ring bearer.

THE RANDY TAYLORS (Mary Ann Walsh)

A graduate of Terra Nova High School, Mary Ann is also an alumnae of the College of San Mateo and Skyline College. Randy studied at Oceana High School and Cal State at Hayward. Sandy Williams is his sister.

Pacifica is where they will first live.

Catholic Social Service Group Lists Activities

The Catholic Social Service Auxiliary of San Mateo County has set "Holiday Fair — 70" for December 1 in the St. Matthew's Catholic School Auditorium.

The annual fashion show is calendared for September 30 and will be held at the Davies' Estate in Woodside.

Sharon Heights Country Club in Atherton will be the locale for the luncheon to be held on July 16.

Members and friends of Catholic Social Service are reminded that donations of good usable clothing, bric-a-brac, costume jewelry, kitchen ware, and small appliances are always needed to stock the resale shop, "Primrose House of Values," 307 Primrose Road, Burlingame.

Glenn Allen Grand Night

Marian Council 3773, Knights of Columbus, has elected Glenn L. Allen grand knight for the 1970-71 term, succeeding Jim Haug, now a trustee of the council.

Others elected to office were:

Deputy Grand Knight, Tom Curr; Chancellor, Joe Gumina; Recorder, Herb Bradford; Warden, Ed Oliva; Advocate, Joe Capurro; Outside Guards, Paul Azevedo and Ken Cathey; Inside Guards, Lou Tricerri and Al Abrahamson; Treasurer, Ray Tschirgi.

Trustees, Lifetime, Gene Graziani; Three Year, Jim Haug; Two Year, Bob Hale; One Year, Frank Teeter.

Newly elected chancellor, Joe Gumina was named "Man of the Month" for June and presented an award of recognition for his work for the council.

An Enchilada Luncheon Set

Our Lady of Perpetual Help Mothers' Club will hold an enchilada luncheon June 28 from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m., in the school hall, 60 Wellington Avenue, Daly City.

Tickets are $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for children. Mrs. Russell Evans is chairman.

Proceeds to benefit school in future activites.

DC Production Of 'Alice' Set

The Daly City Recreation Division plans to produce an original script of "Alice Through the Looking Glass" August 13 at the Westmoor High School Little Theatre.

The production is geared for the participant who is 12 years of age and older. Adults are welcome. We need cast members, musicians, and crews for scenery, lighting and costumes.

Tryouts will be June 24 from 7 to 9:30 p.m. at the Little Theatre.

Fuchsia Talk

Robert Castro of the Fuchsia Forest Nursery, and past president of the American Fuchsia Society was guest speaker at the recent meeting of the Pacifica AFS BRANCH. "What's New in Fuchsias" was his topic.

MONTARA TRIP

The Daly City-wide teen trip to Montara Beach, sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Division, will be from 5 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. July 2.

FUCHSIA "MARKET"

The San Francisco Branch, American Fuchsia Society, has set its second annual fuchsia gardening flea market June 27, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Hall of Flowers.

Scout Officials Are Installed For New Terms

Phillip M. Lighty of Hillsborough was installed for a second term as president of the San Mateo County Council, Boy Scouts of America, at ceremonies at the San Mateo County Fairgrounds.

Other officers seated with Lighty were Standish H. Harison and Albert J. Horn of Hillsborough, John T. Montgomery of San Bruno and J. Finley Thompson of Millbrae, as vice presidents; John F. Linden of San Mateo, treasurer; Arthur H. Bredenbeck of Atherton, scout commissioner, and Tom Moore of Belmont, Scout executive secretary.

Jack Mancinelli, Scout-O-Rama chairman, said the top Scout-O-Rama award went to Cub Pack 276, sponsored by a group of parents of Winston Manor. Cubmaster is Paul Teams of South San Francisco.

District chairmen elected to the Scout council executive board included Morris Jacobson of South San Francisco, and Marvin Teed of Pacifica.

Scouters recommended for commissioning as District Commissioners included Robert Fernekes, Colma and Harold Schwalke, Pacifica.

DC Women Are Officers

Mrs. Daniel J. Casey Jr. was installed as president of the San Francisco Women's Auxiliary to the California Pharmaceutical Association recently at a luncheon held at the California Golf Club, and will serve for the term 1970-71.

Other officers installed were: Mrs. Dino Tonelli of Daly City, vice president; Mrs. Stewart Kittinger, recording secretary; Mrs. James Cousins, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Julian Weiss, treasurer; Mrs. Norman Guthrie of Daly City, parliamentarian; Mrs. William Campana, historian; Mrs. Max Stein, auditor.

Elected to the board were Mrs. Norman Gutherie, Mrs. Sigmund Oppenheimer, Mrs. Marie Kuck, and Mrs. Max Babin.

Office Moving

The San Francisco office of the Boy Scouts of America will be moved on July 1 to 5228 Diamond Heights Boulevard, because the Scouts have outgrown the facilities at their present location, 333 Fell Street, occupied since the early 1950's.

Louanne Heath's Datebook

KURT POEHLEMAN will host the June Meeting of the executive board of the Art Guild of Pacifica, according to William Matheny, editor of the guild's newsletter.

Matheny, who is the newly appointed chairman of the guild's annual formal show, is bound to be on hand for the board session Monday evening to begin garnering volunteer assistance for the monumental task of presenting the exhibits of the guild members for judging.

The formal show has been subject of many discussions among guild members during recent months and the participating artists are always on the look out for new and more effective ways of staging this major exhibit.

With the growth of membership the task of putting on shows has become more complicated and for the Mothers' Day Show in the Fairmont Mall, the show chairman was faced with the tasks of properly displaying 230 works. Not only paintings must be displayed, but acceptable arrangements must be made for such diverse items as textiles, batik, pottery and sculpture. Little wonder that Matheny is already on the lookout for assistants for the winter event!

June recruits to the membership roll are Mrs. Ann Villyard of Pacifica and Jean-Louis Tissot of Daly City.

MRS. MURRAY H. FREEDMAN and son, Jeff, were among the contributors who accepted the invitation of the California Theater Foundation to attend a special dress rehearsal of the American Conservatory Theater production of The Tempest this past week.

The Shakespearean comedy, which opened its public run Wednesday, was a delightful treat for the audience which saw, not only the final directions being given by Director William Ball, but the polishing touches being added by the stars.

Mead, the white wine made of honey to which Shakespearean characters often refer, was served to guests at the reception which followed the rehearsal.

Mrs. Freedman and Jeff report having a chat with Paul Shenar, who plays Caliban, the groteque monster, Shenar was wearing only a portion of his costume during the run-through, indicating that the top portion was being redesigned to compensate for the almost unbearable heat generated by the elaborate leather creation.

The localites chatted with Corinne Swall, Amanda Bruce and Joyce Cassel who portray the spirits Iris, Ceris and Juno.

MEMBERS OF THE FIFTY PLUS CLUB have expressed gratitude to Mrs. Rose Scanlon, whose special talent is helping to finance the work of the club's sunshine committee.

Mrs. Scanlon is a talented craftswoman who makes many interesting and useful items which she sells.

DC Girl Scouts To Operate Flea Market To Aid Pupils

More clean, resalable items, especially children's clothing and toys, are needed for the July 11 flea market sale at Colma Intermediate School from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Co-chairmen are Mrs. Frederick Stewart and Mrs. Alan Mori.

Proceeds will provide funds for field trips for the students of the Latin Heritage Program.

Funded by OEO and NYC, the program is geared to aiding the Spanish-speaking residents of the community. Julia Monares is the program director.

The Girl Scouts of Daly City have volunteered to operate the flea market.

Mrs. John Kachur and Mrs. Wilcon Fitzgerald are collecting items. Donations may be deposited at 80 Station Avenue or 707 Stoneyford Drive, Colma.

The Latin Heritage Program has been established to help the Spanish-speaking families of Daly City, primarily the youth.

The program runs to July 24, Monday through Friday, from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. at Colma Intermediate School and is open to all children of Spanish extraction.

Students are helped with their English or taught Spanish, plus acquainted with the culture of their particular country whether it be Central or South America or Mexico.

The OEO and NYC are supplying funds for the tutors.

The Girl Scouts are participating as part of their commitment to be involved as constructive members of the total community.

Summer Skyline Program To Include Child Films

Skyline College's Summer Community Education Program will include two children's programs, July 9 and July 30.

Presented in cooperation with the Skyline College Sponsors Association, "Film Festival: A Child's World" will feature "The Red Balloon," at 1:30 p.m., July 9, and "White Mane," on July 30.

Both programs will be held in the college's main theatre, with cartoons and short subjects suitable for children of all ages to be included.

Other summer programming will include organic gardening, July 8, 15, 22, 29, from 9 a.m. to noon at the San Bruno Recreation Center, conducted by botanist Albert Wilson, author of "How Does Your Garden Grow?"

"Art and Awareness in Nature" will be offered from 12:30 to 4 p.m. on July 11, 18 and August 1 and 8—all Saturdays, with the first meeting to be held in the main theatre on campus. Dr. Harold Sweet, botanist-biologist at Skyline, and Richard Sperisen, art consultant and director of school design for San Mateo Elementary Schools will conduct the field study program.

Rose Collection At Society Meet

The showing of a Rose Collection from Around the World by Dr. Charles V. Covell, of Piedmont, will be the program for the June meeting of the San Mateo County Rose Society Inc. at 8 p.m. June 25 at Baywood School, 600 Alameda de las Pulgas, San Mateo.

Dr. Covell, past president of the American Rose Society, has made many trips abroad to select and collect these roses. He will show many cultivars unavailable in this country.

Hector Taylor of New Zealand also will be a guest, speaking briefly on his tour to the American Rose Society's National Convention in Denver.

THE MARQUEE

'Scorching Look At Troubled Era'

Who is better qualified to write about the generation gap than a mother with three late-teenage children. Only she doesn't believe there is such a point of departure, calling it instead, "a value valley."

London-born Jacqueline Briskin has written a novel about the children of the Sixties drawing on their hipness and their hangups. The ink wasn't wet on the Lippincott publication (570 pgs.) $7.95) when Columbia Pictures grabbed at it.

JACKIE BRISKIN

It suggests the familiar casting game as you read of the lives played out against the headlines of America's growth chart: JFK's political rise and assassination, missiles in space, Watts, campus unrest and the War in Vietnam. Names like Joan Crawford, Jon Voight and Diana Ross suggest themselves in the characters.

The authoress was deeply conditioned by these events and wrote the book because "everywhere I'd go, parties, meetings, shopping, people were talking about young people today. On a deeper level I wanted to know if they are really different than we were. I see now they're not as materialistic and much braver, like my daughter leaving a comfortable home to live in Israel. The reaction of my generation has been good but my Mother's group doesn't like it."

"As I worked these ideas out on paper, I knew it was helping me to become a better mother. I hope it does the same for other mothers. Part of the problems of today's youth is accentuated by parents extreme reaction to it."

"In America, the children are more a focal point of the family than in England. My friends spend too much time running their children's lives, hoping to mold them into their standards."

"I'm a novelist, not a moralist. But I see many of my generation enjoying their youngsters' lives vicariously. Having brought up our children in Bel Air gave me plenty of opportunity to observe. Sure the characters are fictional but my children see parallels with their acquaintances. I suppose it's only natural."

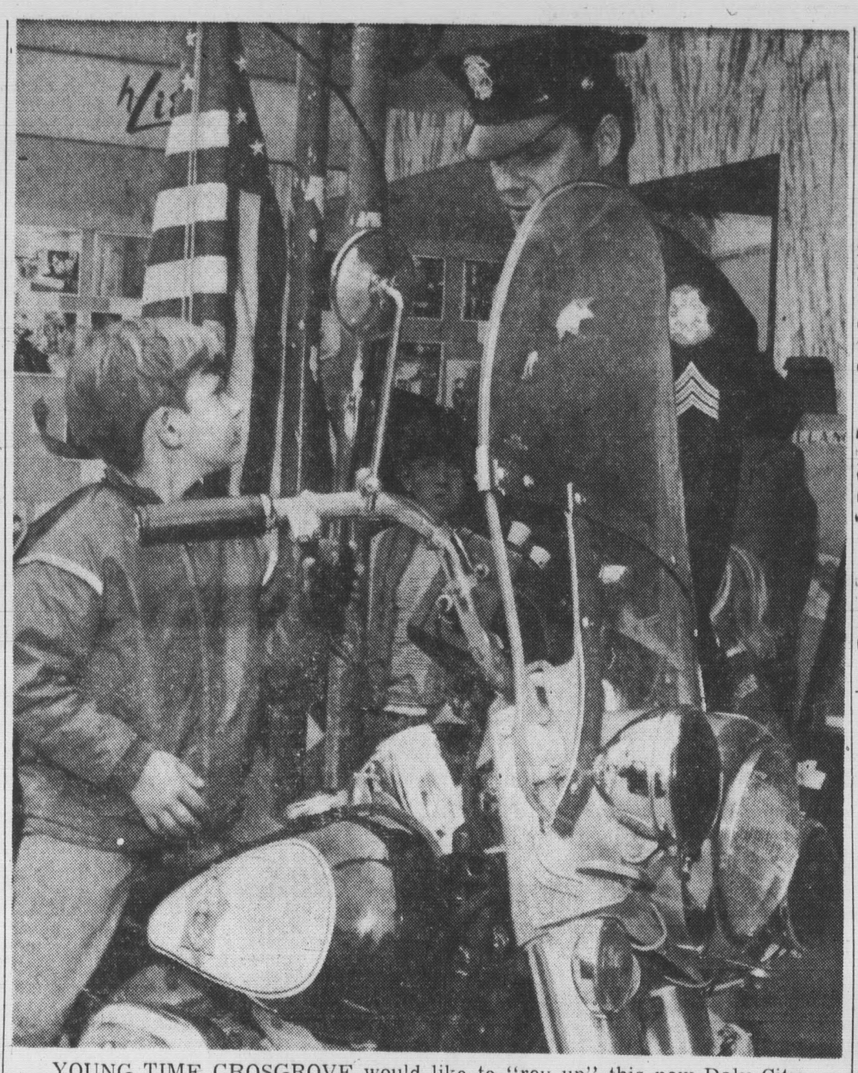
Mrs. Briskin grew up in Beverly Hills where her family lived next door to Maureen O'Sullivan. Other neighbors on the block were George Murphy, Joan Fontaine, Gene Kelly, Lupe Velez with Cesar Romero serving as air raid warden.

But she never saw herself ultimately in the limelight, having turned her talents to being a housewife and mother. Her mentor was book critic for the L. A. Times, Robert Kirsch with whom she registered for a UCLA extension curse. He urged her to write and one short story led to another with monetary success.

Between visiting her brother, Richard Orgelo in San Francisco and her son and daughter-in-law in Berkeley, she's traveling cross country on a book promotion tour. Then it's back to the typewriter to complete another long novel, tentatively titled "The Years Between."

Her first book takes her characters, the first generation to be raised on "smog and Spock, transistorized music, and frozen dinners, parental permissiveness and paperback pornies" through post teens, college and first marriages and divorce. They were the first kids to grow up on rock, pot and the Pill.

It would seem too much to put into one panoramic tableau of the era but they might have enough left over from the film (by the producers of "They Shoot Horses, Don't They?") to spark a television series.



YOUNG TIME CROSGROVE would like to "rev up" this new Daly City Police Department motorcycle, but Police Sgt. Robert Ingbritsen says, "Sorry," when cycle was part of four-day police exhibit at Westlake Shopping Center.

3 Westside Delegates To Confab

The 91st annual meeting of the Baptist General Conference will open at the Convention Center, in San Diego, June 28, and will attract three delegates from Westside Baptist Church of Pacifica.

James Pollock and Alton Swedberg and Pastor David Donnelly will be the Pacifica delegates. They will be accompanied by their wives.

June 28 at Westside Baptist Church, 390 Inverness Drive (Fairmont) of Pacifica, the guest speaker at the 10:55 a.m. morning worship hour will be the Rev. Russel Fritz, associated with Christian Evangelicals Commission of San Jose.

The Rev. Fritz has pastored several Conference Baptist churches. Special music for this service wil be a vocal solo by Mrs. Phyllis Estrem of Daly City.

There is a nursery for toddlers and babies maintained during this service, and also two children's churches; primary for boys and girls 3-6 years of age, and junior for boys and girls 7-9 years of age.

Following the morning worship hour, the church social committee will be hosts for the regular monthly coffee hour fellowship. This affords visitors and members to get better acquainted.

The Family Fellowship Gospel Hour is to be at 7 p.m. Sunday, when the Rev. Firtz will speak. Special music for this service will be a piano solo by Dean Arvidson. In the absence of the pastor, members of the Board of Deacons will be in charge.

Bar Mitzvah, Sabbath Rites At DC Temple

Congregaton B'nai Israel, 1575 Annie St., Colma, will celebrate Birthday Sabbath June 26. To be honored are the children whose birthdays are in June, Cheryl Melnick, Anita Reynard, Leonard Rose, Rhonda Spinrod, Linda Veprin, and Kenneth Pollett.

On June 27, George Karpaty, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Karpaty of Daly City, will become Bar Mitzvah. Services begin at 6:30 p.m. on Friday and 10 a.m. on Saturday. Cantor Henry Greenberg will officiate.

Congregation B'nai Israel will sponsor a fireworks sale at the corner of School Street and Junipero Serra Boulevard in the Broadmoor Shopping Center, Colma, beginning June 28.

S.S.F. Streets To Retain Their Names

Since South San Francisco City Atty. John Noonan graciously requested deletion of his name, and Councilman Frank Bertucelli did the same, three city streets will retain original names.

Councilmen, because of these two men's action, filed a recommendation of the planning commissioners that the street names of Nora Way, Susie Way and Sandra Court be changed to Cassinelli Way, Bertucelli Avenue and Noonan Court, respectively.

Noonan declined the proposed commemoration of his services because of opposition from residents living in this Willow Gardens section of the city.

Oral presentations against the proposed street-name changes were made to planning commissioners by residents Larry Dillingham, June Lindstrom and Linda Davis.

The planning commissioners also received a petition signed by 53 residents of Willow Gardens.

It was back in April that the law firm of Lyons and Morgan sent a letter to the councilmen requesting permission to change the names.

The reason for the changes, as stated in the letter, was to "recognize residents of South San Francisco who have contributed toward the growth and development" of the city.

At that time Bertucelli said he didn't want his name on a street that had "poor landscaping."

Noonan made no comment at that time, and the matter was referred to the planning commissioners. But recently Noonan "earnestly requested the council not to include my name because of inconvenience to the people living there having to change their records."

Annexation Is Approved

Annexation of portions of the Deane and Deane property to the Coastside County Water District and the Half Moon Bay Fire Protection District was approved yesterday by the County Local Agency Formation Commission.

The action complies with conditions attached to approval April 15 of annexation of the land to the city of Half Moon Bay.

To be taken into the water district is a total of 700 acres, the same amount of property involved in the city annexation. Being taken into the fire protection district are 400 acres.

The Deane and Deane Company, which acquired most of the former Doelger lands on the Coastside las year, is planning to develop homesites. The annexations will assure that municipal services will be available to builders.

Bank Honors D.C. Teller

Mrs. Evelyn Helterbran, a resident of Daly City, has been awarded the title of First Wester Bank "Lady of the Month," according to an announcement made by Regional Vice President Bob Mossburg. Mrs. Helterbran, a vault teller in the $950 million bank's Mission Office in San Francisco, was chosen from among all female staff members of the San Francisco-Peninsula area offices.

Mrs. Helterbran was selected for the quality of her service to customers, her staff leadership, her personal charm and appearance, Mossburg said.

Mrs. Helterbran joined First Western a year ago, after moving to Daly City from the east. She is a native of Philadelphia and has been a banker for 19 years in Tucson, Kansas City and Pittsburgh.

Loss Figure Is Raised

Daly City Fire Chief Herb Ritzmann has boosted the loss figure in the destruction of a portion of the South Exhibit Building at the Cow Palace.

First estimates of $150,000 worth of damage to the structure and Flea Market exhibit contents, have been revised upward, to $250,000.

Ritzmann said he met with state architectural and Cow Palace officials and learned that a minimum of $200,000 would be required to replace the building, a big portion of which was destroyed or heavily damaged.

A Feature Potpourri

Frank LaPierre

Post-Times Writer

WHATEVER IT IS it's contagious: The latest San Bruno city councilman to start plugging himself to the general public is Dick Griffith. Not only does Griffith publish a sheet called "Griffith Graphics," he throws in a limerick or two, along with his opinions on what good city government is made of.

His slogan, "To build a better world, you have to build a better city first," sounds like it was plucked right off a first-grade chalkboard.

Griffith joins another amateur correspondent — councilman Theodore Long — in attempts to publicize what they are going to do, have already done or what their fellow councilmen should have done. Before this entire thing gets out of control — releasewise — may we remind that "Actions speak louder than (written) words."

AND WHILE WE'RE on the subject of councils, those three South San Francisco city councilmen who bypassed retired Councilman Andrew Rocca's testimonial dinner the other p.m. showed taste — all bad!

The trio, Frank Bertucelli, Patrick Ahern and Bill Borba, were not the only ones conspicuous by their absence, so was City Attorney John Noonan! Fellas, if you're gonna play the game, play it. It's only cricket to do things you don't particularly like, if you want to be a "pro" in the political world.

Two of the absentees — make that three — sat next to Rocca for the better part of his political life and smiled through the tears. Why, we ask, couldn't they have done it for another couple of hours????

LIONS CLUB EVENT — The story that Daly City Host Lion Paul Perez told at the 30th Annual Installation Dinner the other night at the Olympic Club had the crowd rolling in the aisles. Had to do with a "good will" tour the club's official greeter took down Mexico way in recent months. And that's as far as the publisher will allow us to go. But do have Paul tell you all the details.

FOR AN "HONOR STUDENT" that picked up A's and B's during his high school career, that young fella down South City way, that burned a few holes in a tiny American flag, doesn't sound so smart to this columnist. Matter-of-fact he's lucky all he got from school authorities was a suspension. Seems to us there're laws against defacing a flag and also smoking on campus.

Instead of sympathizing with this youth, who, according to reports, agreed that he did a "stupid, childish act" he receives the annual "Flat of my sword" award. To the other students that took him to task for what he was doing we give a pat on the back and a "well done."

SICK CALL — Rosemary Eidson, congenial waitress at Compton's Coffee Shop in Westlake, struck by an unknown bug. First time Rosemary's been ill in her life. Hope it isn't catchy . . . Old buddy Joe Gollop at Mt. Zion (room 636) recovering from something. Joe is that little old wine pusher at the Westlake Liquor store . . . Saddened to hear of the death of South San Francisco Unified School District trustee Lorraine Cooper's husband . . . Jim Parish, promotion director of Westborough Square Shopping Center, open heart surgery at Stanford.

ELIO FONTANA AND YOURS TRULY have a mutual friend in Vancouver, B.C. But that's not the story: Frank Baker (the MF) is a big fan of Ian Fleming's mythical agent 007 (James Bond). So much so he just laid out $30,000 cash on the barrelhead for Bond's 140 - mile - per - hour Aston Martin supercar complete with smoke screen apparatus, machineguns and revolving license plates. Baker has the car on display at his Attic Restaurant in Vancouver along with three other posh limousines once used by Kings George V and VI and Prince Philip. We knew Frank when he was the hottest horn player on the West Coast but had to stop when he lost his . . . But that's another story!

HAPPY BIRTHDAY HENRY — Westlake Shopping Center will honor its builder, Henry Doelger, with a glowing tribute today.

They (owner Jim Trevor) will flash a birthday greeting on the center's new electronic signboard for all the world . . . well at least Westlake . . . to behold. And where will the Great One himself be? Aboard his yacht, Westlake III cruising the Mediterranean, of course.

Yours truly also celebrates his birthday today and while I do have the dubious distinction of making a few "lists" there will be no greetings flashed on any signboard.

LIFE IS LIKE THIS: Two burglars — a man and a woman — waited until local businessman Jack Friedman left his home the other a.m. and quickly moved in. Within minutes the Friedman's lost all their jewelry, color television set and other items of value. But they also lost a little faith in their fellow man. Seems a couple of neighbors spotted the pair cleaning out the Friedman's home but decided "not to get involved." They even told the victim this fact. "Least they could have done was take their license number and call police," Friedman commented. Oh, well, everything was covered by insurance, right Jack? To which the victim shouts back, "The hell it was!" before going into a long dissertation on insurance companies and how he feels about them.

MAYOR BUD LYCETT (Daly City) is bouncing around town like a rooster because of an award the City Hall just grabbed from the San Mateo County Development Association. Even the public hearing on the controversial business license tax did not dampen Lycett's pleasure over topping the list of nominees for the coveted award.

DON'T KNOW ABOUT you folks, but I'm getting mighty tired of all those kids on bicycles almost running me down inside the Westlake Shopping Center Mall.

A LOL was actually hit by one the other day and while she maintained her stand the bags of groceries she was carrying crashed to the ground. The bike riders never even stopped to help her pick them up.

There oughta be a law . . . or is there? Hello chief?? Hello, hello!

Honoring Vergeer's Years Of Service

San Bruno City Manager Gerard S. Vergeer will end a career which spanned 25 years in 5 cities when he retires this month.

Described by his neighbors and close ffriends as "quiet and somewhat reserved," it is the opinion of the San Bruno City Council that he is "definitely been very effective in the management of our city."

The San Bruno Chamber of Commerce plans to salute Gerard S. "Gerry" Vergeer on June 26 at a testimonial dinner to be held at the Hilton Inn.

Born in the shipping port of Rotterdam in the Netherlands in 1905, "Gerry" and his five brothers and two sisters migrated with their parents to the United States in 1918.

"I remember my first seagoing experience," he recalls. "We were stopped by a German submarine enroute. I remember being more thrilled than scared at the sight of the U-boat."

The sea was my first love and only ambition as a young man. After completing grade and high school in Grand Rapids, Mich., he took a special course in radio and electronics in Chicago in 1925. He then passed his first class commercial radio operator's examination in Portland, Ore., and was eventually assigned by Macky Radio to the old Admiral Line ships then operating to Alaskan ports.

"As a youngster, I wanted to see the world and thought this was the best way to accomplish this objective," Mr. Vergeer said. "I haven't seen all the world I want to, but I certainly did see all four corners of the United States, and most of the middle West, Alaska, and most of Canada."

In between his travels as a young man, "Gerry" met, wooed, and married Kathleen Paige. They decided he should get a job on the land instead of being away for months on a ship, according to "Gerry."

Jobs were difficult to find in 1935, however with his background in radio and electronics, the Pacific Power and Light Company hired him as title agent in Pineville, Oregon. He was elected president of the Pineville Chamber of Commerce. In 1940, he was promoted to title agent in Bend, Oregon.

After the war, a friend persuaded him to apply for the city manager's position in Milton, Oregon.

"There was much work to be done in Milton and one of my jobs was helping the election on consolidation of this city with the city of Freewater, "Mr. Vergeer recalls. "The election carried and I was selected as the first manager of the city of Milton-Freewater, as it is now named. This city had extensive electrical utilities which were modernized to take care of the heavy industrial load."

In 1951, he went to Baker, Oregon, a defacto government. He and the city attorney set up a new charter, sent out the required voter pamphlets, and the charter was approved by election.

"For personal reasons I resigned to accept a position at Port Angeles, Washington, and remained from 1952 to 1958, during which time great strides were made in street improvements and the city's electrical and water utilities, "Mr. Vergeer explained."The first improvement district covered a fourth of the city and most of it's arterial streets. The city also severed it's contract relations with a public utility district and purchased it's power direct form government sources."

His work with the city of Port Angeles enabled the city utility to sell power at wholesale rates to Crown Zellerbach Corporation, Fibreboard Corporation, Peninsula Plywood Corporation, and other industrial accounts.

From 1958 to 1961, Mr. Vergeer served the city of Klamath Falls, Oregon.

"During this time this city constructed a new airport terminal, a new disposal plant, and heated the new corporation yard buildings with gas generated at the disposal plant," he said. "All three projects were said to be impossible and as it turned out, all three projects paid for themselves."

He came to San Bruno in 1961.

A FRIEND talked Gerard Vergeer into applying for the job of city manager in Milton, Oregon. He applied and got the job (upper left) starting a career which has spanned 25 years as city administrator in five cities. After building a civil defense building and setting up an emergency disaster coordination center (lower left) Vergeer worked on a creation of the first West Coast municipally owned cable TV operation. Under his administration, a major hook-up with the Junipero Serra Freeway was arranged in San Bruno with the creation (upper right) of the county cross lateral freeway, Route 380. After 35 years of public service, all retiring Vergeer wants to do is fish on the Straits of Juan De Fuca. Here (lower right) he shows San Bruno senior City Councilman Maurice K. Hamilton how big the fish will be that he won't let get away.

Letters to the Editor

Editor, The Post:

I'm writing this in regards to the Woodstock record being aired in the classroom.

I find it appalling that some parents condone the use of four letter words in the classroom. The classroom is a place to learn worthwhile and useful things; four letter words are not worthwhile. We do not use obscene language in our home and we do not send our children to school to learn them. We might condone their use at school if we used them at home.

The argument, be some of these parents, that the words are used in movies, books, plays etc. doesn't hold water. Since narcotics are so popular with some kids, should yours be allowed to experiment? The same holds true with determental language. My kids are not allowed to attend obscene movies, or read dirty books, or see questionable plays (I might add that we do not indulge in such things either.

I know that my children know these four letter words, but they also know that it is crude to use them. They know that they are not used in respectable places, their home, church and their classrooms. Thank goodness my children don't indulge in obscene language! May they continue not to do so!

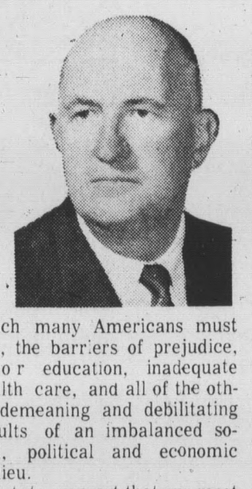
The 'Bad Guy'



JAMES HALLEY

Post-Times Columnist

Equality is a foundation of our free society and its success. But as our society matures, we are having difficulty with the concept, its protection and universality.

This is partially the result of growing sophistication and increasing expectation. But it also results because the term "equality" embraces two separate and different concepts. One of these is equality of opportunity, which should be made available to all. The second is equality of accomplishment, which is unattainable. The first relates to our constitutional guarantees, the equality of men before law and the opportunity afforded by our society for growth, development and individual advancement. The second relates to the manner in which we employ our basic rights and freedoms, and the degree of success that each of us experiences within the framework of rights, privileges and restraints.

Serious difficulties have arisen concerning equality of opportunity. We have learned that the child of a sharecropper does not really enjoy equal opportunity with the child of a wealthy suburbanite. We have painfully discovered, for example, that our systems of education, health care, and family training are not of even quality. We have learned that prejudice has, in fact, retarded the opportunity of many. In the last decade, we have seriously re-examined our system and now understand that while men are probably more equal here than anywhere else in the world, we are still a long way from attaining the ideal of true equality.

So we have had a recognizable evil to attack. But as is so often the case, we have overreacted. In our anxiety to develop true equality of opportunity, we have gone too far. Many members of our society have tried to guarantee equality of accomplishment and unless we are to reduce all men to the lowest common denominator, this is impossible.

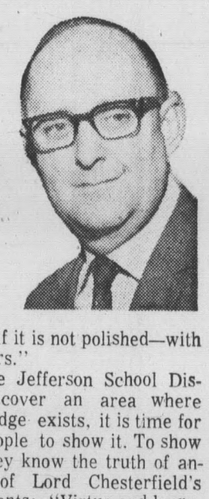
Nowhere does this mistaken effort to even out talent and energy show its effect more plainly than in the field of education. Among students and faculty, a new "thing" is on. The bad guy has become the "striver." Any kind of athletic, or academic competition is considered by many to be an "ego trip." Faculties yearn for schools without grades. Otherwise intelligent men urge admission of the unqualified. Still others find reasons for elimination of examinations. Phi Beta Kappa is now under attack on the ground that a diligent student who succeeds in winning a key is no longer the equal of his brothers.

Such efforts miss the mark. The target should be the fundamental inequalities of opportunity, including the depressing and distressing environment in which many Americans must live, the barriers of prejudice, poor education, inadequate health care, and all of the other demeaning and debilitating results of an imbalanced social, political and economic milieu.

But to suggest that our most accomplished citizens, particularly the young, should not endeavor to excel, and to outlaw wholesome competition between peers because someone must win is to give up the game completely. Elimination of all striving and genius could grow a new and shabby society. In such a structure, there would be no able men to assist the less fortunate, there would be no builders, no discoverers, no pioneers, but only a uniform and drab sameness of people whose only purpose was in living and breathing and eating.

Equality requires that we start the race together and that the rules for running are the same for everyone. It is obviously foolish to expect that all participants will run equally well throughout the race or that everyone will cross the finish line at the same time. It is even sillier to suggest that in order to remain equal, everyone should fall down at the starting line.

'Deplorable Action'



SAMUEL CHANDLER

Daly City Librarian

I think the conduct of the graudates and the audience at the Westmoor High School graduation was deplorable, exceeding, but only by a fraction, the reprehensible deportment that I observed at every school function I attended during the school year that has just closed.

It is time for a change; time for doting parents and moping friends to leave their cameras at home when they come to school functions or be forced to eat their flashing bulbs, an exercise which would add to the carnival atmosphere already prevailing.

It is time to insist that relatives and friends of performers remain in their seats and refrain from attempts to attract the attention of their dear children. Indeed being unable to see over the bobbling parents at the last talent show at Franklin D. Roosevelt School, I was forced to amuse myself by writing down the strange salutes flung at students who were called by their parents. There was "Ya hoo-oo-o-o, Johnny," Yeh! Yeh! Fred," and "Jenny, Mama's Watching" and "That's a big girl, Lynda," and best of all, "Hold your skirt down Lisa."

It is time to remind the people of this Christian community that proper conduct during a prayer consists of bowing one's head and keeping one's lips zipped. During the Westmoor High School graduation the babbling of the audience rose with crescendo to a rumbling roar of rudeness and was so laced with profanity I couldn't determine which address to diety came from the minister offering the prayer.

It is time for students to learn that even in this hippie era of history somethings are sacred and some actions are taboo. It is not smart to throw your diploma in the air. It is not cute to stick your tongue out or pick your nose, even if Carol Burnett gets away with it. Lord Chesterfield's dictum is still true, "awkward, disagreeable merit will never carry anybody far."

Lord Chesterfield was a very wise man who left words worth contemplating: "Manners must adorn knowledge, and smooth its way through the world. Like a great rough diamond, it—knowledge—may do very well in a closet by way of curiosity, and also for its intrinsic value; but it will never be worn, nor shine, if it is not polished—with manners."

If the Jefferson School Districts cover an area where knowledge exists, it is time for the people to show it. To show that they know the truth of another of Lord Chesterfield's statements: "Virtue and learning, like gold, have their intrinsic lustre, and even polished brass will pass upon more people than rough gold."

If the people of the Jefferson School Districts have gone too far down the tail of bad manners—and it seems they have—to change before school starts in the fall, they will find in their public library books that can guide them back to proper conduct—Lord Chesterfield's Letters and other volumes.

SP Land May Become Pool Parking Lot

A Southern Pacific Company parcel of land adjacent to South San Francisco's Orange Avenue Memorial Park soon may become a parking lot for the city's new swimming pool at the park.

According to City Atty. John Noonan, cost estimates are being made by Southern Pacific Company at the request of Southern Pacific Pipeline Company as to the cost of relocating a spur track.

Noonan said that once the matter of determining who—S.P. or S.P.P.—will pay the cost of relocation, the city would get the entire area for use as a parking lot.

Actually the land was supposedly given to the city some time ago as a swimming pool parking lot. However, the deed carried a condition that apparently was unknown by city officials. It said that before the city could use the land permission would have to be obtained from Guy F. Atkinson Company. The firm has been using the S.P. spur track to transport goods to its warehouse.

2 Arrested After Chase In South S.F.

Two Richmond youths were arrested at gunpoint in South San Francisco early June 16 as they ran from the wreckage of a car that crashed during a police chase.

Highway Patrolman Kenneth R. Kettell said he and his partner, John Newton, were northbound on Bayshore Freeway in San Bruno when they tried to stop a car with defective lights. The auto turned off on South Airport Boulevard and increased its speed, Kettell said. At the point where the thoroughfare crosses under the freeway, the officer reported, the car went out of control at about 55 miles an hour and crashed into an overpass pillar.

Kettell said the two occupants scrambled out of the demolished car and started to run. They stopped, however, after several orders to do so, the officer reported.

The suspects were identified as Jesse B. McCain, 19, and Dennis Hines, 17. They were taken to County General Hospital for first aid treatment of minor injuries. McCain was then booked at county jail and the younger boy was taken to Hillcrest Juvenile Hall.

Kettell said the car is registered to a Moffett Field sailor. Investigation was being made today to determine whether it was stolen.

Drug Charge Is Dropped

Felony drug possession charges against Leslie Acker of Daly City were dropped by mutual agreement of Deputy District Attorney Stanley Polin and Defense Attorney James McInnis last Wednesday.

Judge Charles Becker continued the case until July 2 after much discussion with Attorney McInnis regarding whether to incarcerate Acker or release him.

Acker was arrested on charges of possession of marijuana by Daly City police on June 2 after an acquaintance—Vincent Paul Walsh — was found dead inside his apartment at 11 Werner Street under what was then termed "mysterious circumstances."

Walsh had apparently died from an overdose of drugs.

The marijuana found in the apartment was a small "roach" and it was uncovered inside a garbage can, it was brought out during the preliminary hearing in Judge Becker's court.

Two Charged In Burglary

Two San Francisco men have been arrested by South San Francisco police and charged with burglary and possession of burglary tools.

Officers Mike Morello, Fred Carelli and Pat Sullivan arrested Anthony Bova, 30, and Leonard Cearamintaro, 34, as they were apparently leaving the warehouse of Westcoast Shows, 100 South Linden Avenue.

Police said Officer Morello had been checking out a vehicle at about 1 a.m. today when he observed two persons leaving the warehouse by a side door.

Entry was made into the warehouse by cutting barred windows with bolt cutters, police said.

Sitting Back To Watch Fiction Become 'Fact'

LE PACINI

Sportscripts

SEVEN OR EIGHT YEARS AGO, when we were still taking cracks at the fiction market, we submitted a short story to several publications which was rejected because it was "too unbelievable."

We, of course, disagreed, because we wouldn't have written it had it been unbelievable to us. True, the story had no basis in provable fact, but neither had our stories about an umpire being killed at home plate, or about major league baseball expanding internationally with games being played in domed stadiums.

And those stories had been rejected for being too far out, and eventually, with several others of the same stripe, had come true in real life. So we accepted the ONE provable fact; that we were pretty good at prognosticating, but lousy at fiction, stowed the story, began writing a life-like column, and settled back to wait for the newspapers to admit in "fact" what we had fictionalized.

OUR STORY had been about a homosexual baseball player.

So early in May, Dr. William H. Masters of St. Louis, a former athlete whose studies of human sexual response are internationally recognized, told Chicago Daily News Service reporter John Justin Smith that many athletes are mama's boys.

Anyone with just a basic knowledge of psychology knows that "mama's boys" are prime suspects for at least latent homosexuality.

And then came Jim Bouton's now notorious book, which in one chapter discusses clubhouse lip-kissing, which brought a strong response from Dr. Bruce Ogilvie, a professor of psychology at San Diego State College and team psychologist for the New Orelans Saints. Dr. Ogilvie is a man who is acknowledged to have possibly done more research concerning athletes than any man in his field.

Said Dr. Ogilvie, in part, in a NEA story by-lined Ira Berkow, "Athletic ability . . . has nothing to do with the formation of sexual appetites. . . .

"Incidents of homosexuality . . . have been known . . . in athletics. But that shouldn't be surprising. About three to five per cent of the male population in America is homosexual. I think it's safe to say that that same percentage of incidence would appear in any field. . . ."

OF COURSE, there is no research material on the subject, as well there shouldn't be, because it isn't that important. And it would be tough to get. Aside from the finks like Bouton, athletes are as close-mouthed about each other (to the public) as doctors are.

We've talked to athletes who will admit privately that they have heard of or known of homosexual athletes, but they won't mention names and tell you that if you print even the sparse information they've give you, they'll deny they said it.

We have heard rumors of several homosexual professional wrestlers, of a famous fighter, of a well-known local track star of years ago. We were told of a fine college football player several years ago who was cut from a pro roster in his rookie year despite adequate performances and for no announced reason, and how, mysteriously, no other clubs in any of the pro leagues offered him even a tryout.

We raise this issue not to ridicule a certain portion of our athletic society. If we were a club owner and had an outfielder or fullback who drew people and won games and he was a homosexual, he could play for us as long as he behaved himself in the shower room. We wish only to point out, as we have periodically done in this column, that while athletes may be a breed of their own, they are human, and that if fans can understand this they may be more tolerant of their hero's bad days and not as fanatic about his great years, and perhaps, in the end better appreciate him and the sport which he plays.

A FEWDAYS AFTER the recent death of Dr. Doug Fessenden, former chairman of San Francisco State's Division of Health, Physical Education and Recreation, we were reminiscing about Fessenden with Sam Goldman, head of the journalism department at Skyline College. We had known Fessenden as a college sports editor. Goldman worked closely with him when Sam was State's director of athletic publicity.

"You know," said Sam, "I don't think Dr. Fessenden ever really enjoyed being a department head. You just can't tie those old jocks down to a desk job and expect them to get any real satisfaction out of it." (Fessenden had been outstanding football coach at the University of Montana.)

And in a flash we knew Sam was right, because suddenly an old memory popped into the consciousness and produced a clear picture of Dr. Fessenden doddling through long, dreary department meetings; doodling X's and O's, his old Montana football plays.

PRESCOTT SULLIVAN, the humorous San Francisco sports columnist, often congratulates Giant managers — with tongue firmly implanted in cheek — for giving their hitters homerun signals.

Prescott thinks that is a fine play and cannot understand why the managers don't use it more often.

We know he's kidding, and we assume he knows he's kidding, but it occured to us the other day, when he again took up the subject in a column, that there might actually be some people who believe that managers can flash homerun signals, and that such a mathematical probability exists because it is a fact that there are fans who believe that managers can flash bunt signals and have their batters automatically lay down perfect bunts every time.

But, of course, a manager can no more signal for a successful sacrifice bunt than he can for a homerun. A manager can tell a player what and how he should do something, and can lecture him for eight hours on its importance, but that doesn't mean the athlete — no matter how well intentioned — will be capable of carrying out the orders.

So remember that, Giant fans, the next time Gaylord Perry flubs a bunt. He might just as easily flubbed a homerun.

BASEBALL MISCELLANEY — We're convinced: The ball is livlier. A spot check of scores during a recent Sunday in the National League revealed that in four of the six games played, the winner scored ten runs. In one of the remaining two the victor scored eight. As if you wouldn't know it, the only tightly-played game that day involved the Dodgers, who lost to Pittsburgh, 3-1.

If Kenny Henderson keeps hitting and Willie Mays forgets about his age, the Giants will be OK in the outfield and scoring departments. But if Henderson and Mays forget what year it is, don't look for a rejuvinated Jimmy Ray Hart to appear from the depths of the minors to do a Frank Merriwell. At last check, Jimmy was hitting .224 for Phoenix, with two homers.

Yes, you're right, a Southern California team does have the best pitching in the majors, according to team earned run averages. But it isn't the Dodgers. It's the California Angels, the only team in the majors, as this is written, with a team ERA below three.

Box office receipts are down, but don't feel too sorry for Horace Stoneham, because it could be worse and he knows it. The Giants, as of the first week of June, were down officialy 9,990. But Oakland was down 25,780. And San Diego, the champ in this category if nothing else, was down 64,485. Compared to the American League leader in lost fans, though, San Diego was prospering. The Red Sox were down 126,480. Even the greatly improved Yankees were off 89,800.

Most improved team in attendance is, surprisingly, the Mets (210,900), despite their relatively lowly standings. All the experts were saying that people would only pay to see the Mets lose as long as they were losers, but when they, the fans, once tasted victory and the Mets had nowhere to go but down, they would lose their belovedness and the fans would treat them like any other losers. But that theory doesn't seem to be holding water.

Most improved club in the American League is California, with an attendance boost, thus far, of 48,300. Which only goes to show that people will pay to see good pitching — especially in a hitter's year.

If further proof be needed that perhaps baseball fans aren't as hot for the big scoring games as baseball officialdom thought they were, 13 of the 24 major league teams are down at the gate this year, and big league ball in general is off 52,317. Things are better in the National League, where eight of the teams have improved attendance and the league has improved 319,821. If you're clever, you can now figure that that means the American league is down, 372,138.

BASEBALL OFFICIALS will just tell you that attendance would be down even worse if they hadn't juiced up the ball, which they deny doing, anyway. Which is their way of avoiding answering the question, why has big league baseball attendance dropped for ANY reason?

Summer Program Set In Pacifica

The Park, Beach and Recreation Department in Pacifica will be conducting a Summer Baseball program for boys 8-12 years of age, the objectives of the program are to enable each boy to learn the fundamentals of baseball, and to play in competition based on ability, age and growth.

This year, the baseball program will use 13 city schools for the first two weeks of drills. All games will be palyed at the Fairmont West, White Field and Ortega School, between the hours of 12:30 and 4:30 p.m.

Ladies Slow Pitch Standings

Teams	W	L	GB
Bruce's Richfielders	3	0	—
Hefner's Typewriter	2	0	½
Cordero Chevrolet	1	2	2
First National Bank	0	2	2½
Farkles	0	2	2½

The Cordero Racers picked up win number "1" by robbing the Money Bags from First National Bank, 9-8. Jo Lackhart paced the Racers by rapping out 3 base hits, while the Money Bags were led by Eve Kole, Shannon Yonenaka and Cheryle McAdams all with three hits apiece.

The Farkles almost pulled the "Up-set of the century" by coming out on the short end of a 16-15 loss to the high flying Richfielders. The Richfielders were led by Pam Regan, Rose Mary Busterna, Bonnie Tweedie and Eve Henderson combined to pound out 13 hits in the "Big Win." The Farkles were paced in their tough loss by Martha Diaz who had a perfect 2 for 2 on the night.

Southern Division

Babs Zamca white washed Sanders Headers 7-0 on the 7 hit pitching of Jim Noonan. Mike Needham provided the offensive punch for Babe Zanca by driving in 3 runs and pounded out a home run.

Romano's pulled the "up-set of the year" by dumping the powerful 2901 Club 12-4. Romano was paced by Mike Vigo with 3 hits, and Ken Barrini and Bob Richards had a homerun each.

Mike Blagrove went four for four as West Wallboard bypassed The Bums for Pacific Manor 7 - 4. Ron Robinson provided the offensive punch for the Bums by rapping two hits and a homerun.

The Spacemen got back on the winning way by up-ending the Sear's team 12-2. Mike Kenney pounded out 3 hits in the win for the Spacemen.

The Winter's Tavern Playboys moved their record to a perfect (5-0) as they rolled over the Paint boys of Egil Hansen 17-1. Bob Preston and Bill Christanson combined for 7 hits to led the Playboy's attack.

Bunny Stop won its first on a forfeit from the 76ers.

Girls Clobber Ball In D.C. Softball Play

The Women's Softball League, sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Division, has produced action each Sunday at Westlake Park.

C & L Garage won over Wilkerson's 76ers with a score of 9-7. Kathy McBride and Pat Jakubowski both tripled for C & L, and Kathy also connected for a double.

Kathy Klotz brought in two runs for the 76ers while Kathy Honrado backed her up with a double in the bottom of the fourth inning.

It was an easy victory for Frank Torres Sluggers as they soundly beat Moore's Truck Stop, 19-4. Moore's kept the Sluggers down for several innings but the Torres team lived up to their reputation with four home runs in the last three innings. Joann Stamps slammed two homers with one each for Loretta Anderson and Gloria Stamps.

The outstanding play of the day was a fantastic double play by Anna Flecher of the Sluggers. She caught a high fly deep in the left field and fired the ball to first and caught the runner off guard.

Swim Lesson Signup Urged

Red Cross-sponsored swimming lessons are in progress at the Jefferson High School pool. Co-sponsored by the Jefferson High School District, the first of the four two-week sessions has attracted over 600 children.

Registration for the second session (June 29-July 10), the third session (July 13-24) and the fourth session (July 27-August 7) is still open at the pool office, Monday through Friday, from 8:30 a.m. to 2 p.m.

For information, call the Jefferson pool in Daly City.

Sea Bowl

Scores are good as usual.

To start with, in the Kings and Queens, Jim Campbell took high game and series with a 224 and 594, Betty Bryant for the ladies with a 560 series. A beautiful 4 game series in the 535 Scratch Trios for Bob Harris 243 and 859. Everett Neal 833 and Tony Simao 830. In the Aquanauts a 208 and 520 for Flossie Wishman was high with teammate Carol Pullin close behind with a 505. Nice going girls. In the Thursday night Ebb Tides, Penny Smith's 578 was high and Nickie Pemberton's 564 right close to her. Nina Hefner three 180 games for a 555 series. Ruth Johnson led the Friday Blue Chip league with a 210 and 499: What happened to that extra pin Ruth?

Little Herman's, Dave Hylton a 231 and 597. Linda Goddman with a 101 average a nice 189 game. Men's Hdcp. Trios 235 and 800 for Tim Allen, Lee Hardin after a nice 731 series. Weak-Enders were led by Tom Kenny with a 210 and 571. Eleanor Bond with a 136 average three nice games for a 525 series. Lodge Trios, Everett Neal 276 and 846 for a four game series. Tim Allen 241 and 831.

In the Adult-Junior it was Bill Funk Sr. and Bill Funk Junior all the way. Bill Sr. 249 and 690 and Bill Jr. 224 and 623. Our little Patty Moreno a Junior almost a triplicate 181 but lost two pins that last game for a still very nice 541. John Armstrong, one of our most promising juniors 226 and 590. In the Junior Classics another big series for John Armstrong 236 and 641, Marc Fehl a 173 average bowler 605 and Rich Stratfull with a 162 average a nice 568.

Nice bowling kids. SEA BOWL FUN LEAGUE is just that when you roll scores like Mike Cristofani 257 along with his other games for a 666. Herb Frost 231 and 566. Mercedes Johnson 549. In the Friday morning Lee's Scratch Trios, Carol Borland 224 and 586 and Sandy Stratfull 203 and 520. Surfside 14 saw some nice scores bowled, again Bill Funk a 223 and 597 and this time wife Joanne a 526. The Ladies 650 Scratch continues to be a tough league with scores higher than ever.

Leading the gals Ginny Featherstone 594, Nickie Pemberton 220 and 593. High game Rose Skellen 233 and 568, Betty Bryant 564, Penny Smith 545 and Juanita White with a 134 average a beautiful 206 game.

Keep up the good scoring girls. Life Savers saw Betty Chandler with a nice 211 and 538. Sue Dillard a 183 and 509, and Marge Ignacio a 215 game. The Monday Blues League is just that for some of the gals. Marika Hughs raised her 119 average with games of 173, 119 and 146 for a 438. Bebs Crane 164 and 442. These girls recently bowled in a coaches league being helped by more experienced bowlers and it looks like it paid off. Almost forgot Vanda Smith and her 187 game. Keep it up girls and make us coaches look good. Blue Chip Leagues are quite the thing now and how these girls go for those Blue Chip Stamps.

Like Jo Banks with a 246 and 556. That kind of bowling must have gotten a few stamps. The Yawners had a tough day this week but Arlyce Baker did her best with 180 and 451. Better luck next week girls.

Cards Defeat PAL Tigers

Tim Cusulus' pitching and Mark Washford's hitting enabled the league leading Cardinals to defeat the PAL Tigers 12-4 and maintain their one game lead in the Daly City Bronco League.

In posting his second win of the season, the chunky right-handed Cusulus allowed four hits, struck out 14.

The second-place ILWU Cubs took a pair from the Meyer's Indians, winning the opener, 8-5, and grabbing the nightcap, 13-7.

Sugar 'n' Spice

Good morning, good cooks.

Now that the kids are home all day, don't they put a terrible strain on the cookie jar? Ah ha, you thought I was going to say strain on the nerves didn't you? That too.

I can't give you a prescription for strained nerves, but I can give you some recipes to relieve the strain on the cookie jar. This could also have a therapeutic effect on strained nerves. For you can have the little darlings bake the cookies, giving them something to do and refill the cookie jar, too.

Just recently I tested a recipe that had an interesting name, "Can-Do" cookies. Betty Crocker was right in naming them this for you can do many things with one basic dough.

CAN DO COOKIES

2 eggs
2-3 cup shortening
2-3 cup margarine or butter, softened
1½ cups sugar
3½ cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons vanilla

Heat oven to 375-degrees.

Beat the two eggs slightly in large mixer bowl. Add the two-thirds each shortening and margarine, the one and one-half cups sugar. Cream. Sift together the three and one-half cups flour with the two teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon salt. Add to creamed mixture. Mix well and blend in the teaspoon vanilla.

Note: I've changed the mixing of these cookies to suit my own methods.

The dough should hold together. (If it doesn't, add 1 or 2 tablespoons cream). Form the dough into a ball with hands. Cut into 2 equal parts. Prepare any 2 of the following cookies.

DOUBLE CHOCOLATE COOKIES

½ "Can do" (Cookie Dough
2 squares (2 oz.) unsweetened chocolate, melted and cooled
1 package (6 oz.) semisweet chocolate pieces
¼ cup water
¼ cup sugar

Combine the cookie dough, 2 squares melted and cooled chocolate, package chocolate pieces, one-fourth cup each water and sugar. Mix well. Drop by heaping teaspoonfuls onto ungreased baking sheet. Bake about 12 minutes in 375-degree oven. Makes 4 dozen.

PEANUT BUTTER COOKIES

½ "Can do" Cookie Dough
2-3 cup peanut butter

Mix the cookie dough and the two-thirds cup peanut butter thoroughly. Mold dough into 1-inch balls. Place 2-inches apart on ungreased baking sheet. Flatten with fork. Bake about 12 minutes or until set, not hard. Makes 3 dozen.

CINNAMON BALLS

½ "Can do" Cookie Dough
2 Tablespoons sugar
2 Tablespoons cinnamon
one-third cup finely chopped pecans

Combine the two tablespoons each cinnamon and sugar and the one-third cup finely chopped pecans. Mold the "Can do" dough into 1-inch balls and roll in cinnamon-nut mixture. Place 2-inches apart on ungreased cookie sheet. Bake 8 to 10 minutes. Makes about 3 dozen.

These cookies are a great favorite with my daughter. Not only easy to make, but delicious to taste.

BUTTER SCOTCH BROWNIES

Part 1
1 cup flour
1-3 cup brown sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
one-third cup soft butter
¼ cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla

Mix together the cup flour, one-third cup brown sugar, and fourth teaspoon salt. Add the third cup soft butter. Mix with a fork. Stir in the fourth cup milk and teaspoon vanilla. Press into bottom of 9-inch square pan and bake in 400-degree oven for 15 minutes.

As this dough bakes prepare the filling in the following manner.

Part 2
1 egg, separated
2 Tablespoons milk
1¼ cups brown sugar
½ cup chopped nuts
2 teaspoon salt
(Bake 350-degree oven about 25 minutes)

Beat the egg white stiffly and set aside. Mix the yolk with the two tablespoons milk, one and one-fourth cups brown sugar, half cup chopped nuts and fourth teaspoon salt. Fold in the beaten egg white.

When Part 1 is baked, remove from oven and spread the filling over top. Return to oven and bake in 350-degree oven about 25 minutes or until nicely browned. Cool about 10 minutes, cut into squares. Cool completely before removing from pan.

Makes about 2 dozen rich cookies.

Hiring Of Youth Wins Approval

South San Francisco councilmen last week briefly reviewed a proposed $6 million budget, giving tacit approval of $20,000 for the hiing of disadvantaged youth for the summer and $5,000 for the city's Information and Referral Center.

Representatives of the center, which is operated by the Office of Economic Opportunity, also asked the city to cover the expense of a "job developer" (to develop jobs for the needy) and to house this person at city hall.

Mayor Patrick Ahern quickly put this on the shelf for study when the question of duplication of services came up because this function supposedly already is handled by the state unemployment office.

He told the representatives they should seek help from the state unemployment office on this matter, meanwhile the city staff would investigate as to what other cities are doing.

The center has been receiving the $5,000 for nearly a year.

During this time the facility has found permanent jobs for 50 persons.

The center also screens all the applicants who are hired by the city under the work program funded by the $20,000.

Last year 50 youths worked a total of eight weeks with the city's street and parks departments. City Manager Tom McKenzie said the program "was very effective last year," and the city "was pleased with the quality of work" by the youths.

This year, however, Director of Public Works Lou Goss indicated it may be possible to use some youths to clear silt from under six bridges spanning Colma Creek. It was pointed out that an estimate received on contracting out for this work would cost the city in the neighborhood of $25,000.

Mayor Ahern said that should this become possible the city would hire extra youths, over and above the 100 to be used in the summer's split shifts, and worry about finding money to pay the youths at a later time from another city fund.

When the session first began, it was momentarily doubtful as to whether it would last long. Mayor Ahern didn't have his copy of the budget and said other councilmen have not had the opportunity to study it either.

McKenzie said that in fairness to the department heads in attendance, the councilmen should go through it.

"I don't know how we can go any further until we have a chance to study it," said Ahern. He then conceded to a quick review of each item and said the council will bring department heads in "one, two or three at a time, whatever time will allow, to let you explain your budget to us."

This year's $6 million budget compares with the 1969-70 budget of $5.5 million. Estimated revenues in the general fund are $5,245,000, and total revenues (which includes the special funds) is $6,069,230. The budget is an 8.7 per cent increase over last year.

McKenzie said he was not recommending any increase in taxes, "and no reduction either." He said he had put $325,000 in the contingency fund for salary increases and adjustments in fringe benefits.

According to McKenzie increase of the city's assessed valuation by three per cent is "conservative." He also said the city is "in fine shape as far as sales tax revenue is concerned."

Some points brought out reflected a desire to hire an additional person at the level of administrative assistant in the city manager's office, and new personnel in the city clerk's office, plus part-time help for the city attorney "to help catch up on backlogged work." The police, fire, engineering, street and recreation and parks department also are seeking more personnel.

Committee Gathers 7,000 Signatures

The Committee for Charter Amendments reports it has gathered more than 7,000 signatures, more than one-third the amount required, to "Let the People Vote" at the November General Election regarding four 1969 San Mateo County Grand Jury recommendations concerning county supervisorial representation.

The group seeks to place on the ballot four separate proposals: 1) increase the number of supervisors and supervisorial districts from five to seven; 2) provide for elections of supervisors from districts; 3) limit the terms of supervisors to two consecutive terms; 4) prohibit reelection of any supervisor after he has reached the civil service age of retirement (70).

According to Chairman James M. Dennis, the Citizens Committee for Charter Amendments "is not after any individual supervisor, but would like to have the people vote on an elective system which is more responsive."

Eighteen citizens, including San Mateo Councilman John Condon, Daly City Mayor Bernard J. Lycett, Foster City representative Wayne McFadden, 1969 Grand Jury member Ruth Kokeir, San Bruno's Les Kelting, and attorney James Dennis of Redwood City, formed the original committee which has grown to 53 active committee members.

Their action stems from the 1969 San Mateo County Grand Jury report which called for the supervisorial election change. The Grand Jury recognized the need for the change, but the Board of Supervisors disagreed. The Committee for Charter Amendments wants the matter put on the ballot for the people to decide. They are out collecting petition signatures to put the matter on the November ballot.

LEGAL NOTICE — LEGAL NOTICE

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

1. NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Board of Supervisors of the County of San Mateo, State of California, will receive sealed bids for the furnishing of all labor, materials, transportation, and services required for:

ALTERATIONS AND ADDITIONS TO EXISTING X-RAY ROOM NO. 1 SAN MATEO COUNTY GENERAL HOSPITAL For The County of San Mateo

2. Instructions for bidders, bid forms, specifications and contract documents may be examined at the office of the County Purchasing Agent, Redwood City, California. All bids shall be submitted in accordance with the requirements and conditions of said documents, including such bid bonds as may be required.

3. Drawings, specifications and contract documents may be examined and copies obtained at the Office of the County Purchasing Agent, Redwood City, California, upon deposit of $10.00 for said documents, which deposit will be forfeited if the Contractor fails to return the Specifications in good condition within ten (10) days of the bid opening date.

4. Bids shall be sealed and filed with the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors of the County of San Mateo at the Hall of Justice and Records, Redwood City, California, on or before the 7th day of JULY, 1970, at 2:00 P.M. and will be opened in public in the Chambers of said Board of Supervisors at or about 2:00 P.M. of that day in said Hall of Justice and Records.

5. Bidders are hereby notified that pursuant to the Statutes of the State of California, or local law thereto applicable, the Board of Supervisors has ascertained the general prevailing rate of per diem wages and rates for legal holidays and overtime work in the locality in which this work is being performed, for each craft or type of workman or mechanic needed to execute this contract which will be awarded the successful bidder.

6. It shall be mandatory upon the Contractor, and upon any subcontractors under him, to pay not less than the said specific rates to all laborers, workmen or mechanics employed by them in the execution of this Contract.

7. The prevailing rates as determined are as follows and are based on an 8-hour day, 40-hour week, except as otherwise noted. Existing agreements between the Building Trades and the Construction Industry groups relative to overtime, holidays and other special provisions shall be recognized.

8. WAGE RATES: The Board of Supervisors has determined and has had published the rates of prevailing wages in the County of San Mateo, in which the work is to be performed, for each craft or type of workman or mechanic needed to perform the contract. Said prevailing rates are set forth on listing, copies of which are set forth in the specifications for the work, in the offices of the County Clerk, Purchasing Agent and Director of Building Construction. Crafts and rates per hour for each craft or type of workman or mechanic needed to perform this contract are listed under Wage Rates, Instructions to Bidders.

9. A Bond will be required for the faithful performance of the contract in amount of not less than One Hundred Per Cent (100%) of the amount of the bid, and a bond will be required to guarantee the payment of wages for services engaged and all bids contracted for materials used in the performance of the contract in an amount of not less than One Hundred Per Cent (100%) of the Bid.

Gentle Touch Is Colonel's Secret Of Successful Vegetable Cookery

Although Colonel Harland Sanders, founder of the Kentucky Fried Chicken corporation, is primarily associated with chicken, it's not unusual for him to serve as many as seven vegetables per sitting at his own table.

"Vegetables don't have to be dull" the Colonel insists, "with proper care they can be just great. Gentle cooking is a must. If you think of vegetables as tender flowers, you'll get better results. Be sure to use only young, fresh vegetables, with a good quality butter or oil and the best seasonings. If you do, you'll turn out tasty vegetable dishes."

The first thing most cooks do is throw the vegetable into a big pot of boiling water, Colonel Sanders adds. "This is a mistake. If he vegetable has to be cooked in water, just use enough to barely cover it. But vegetables can also be braised in a skillet, folded into souffles, or partially-cooked and then served in a marinade. Imagination is the prime ingredient in vegetable cookery. And with so many fine summer vegetables now showing up all over the country, why not try your hand at it?"

Here are two recipes for Colonel Sanders' favorite summer vegetables — a gently-glazed, squash and crisp green stringbeans:

TRANSPARENT SQUASH

3 cups summer squash
1 tsp. mace
½ cup sugar
1-3 cup melted butter
2 cups water
Pinch of salt

Cut squash into ¾-inch slices. In pan, sprinkle mace and salt on squash slices. Add sugar, butter and water, which should just cover the squash. Then simmer slowly until the squash appears transparent and has absorbed the butter and sugar.

SUPER STRINGBEANS

3 lbs. fresh stringbeans
½ lb. butter
½ cup slivered almonds
1 tbs. chopped parsley

Wash 3 lbs. stringbeans in cold water. with a sharp knife, remove strings and cut fine lengthwise in "French" style. Place beans in pan with just enough water to cover and cook gently for about 10-12 minutes. Watch the beans carefully. At the moment when they turn bright green remove them from the fire, drain thoroughly, and place in a hot covered vegetable dish Then quickly melt butter and toss almonds in the butter until they are toast-colored. Pour butter and almonds over beans, sprinkle with chopped parsley, and serve.

Salads Go Well With Hot Days

Salads are synonomous with late spring and summer. They take advantage of the seasonal bounty of vitamin-rich vegetables and fruits. When meat, rich in high-quality protein, is included, salads are ideal warm weather main dishes. They require little time to ready and make a colorful table.

Meaty salads conveniently utilize cooked leftover meats, putting them to good use and saving on preparation time.

Beef, veal and pork roasts, ham and ready-to-serve meats can be cut into cubes or julienne strips for interesting salad combinations. More than one type of meat can be used in the same salad.

Home economist Reba Staggs, National Live Stock and Meat Board, recommends two recipes deserving many encores. One, Mandarin Ham Salad, is a cool combination of ham, fruits, marshmallows, sour cream and rice. Another salad for a satisfying luncheon is Julienne Beef Salad. Cooked roast beef mixes with peas, celery, capers and cheese to fill lettuce cups.

MANDARIN HAM SALAD

3 cups cooked ham, cut in ¾-inch cubes
1 can (13½ ounces) pineapple chunks, well-drained
1 can (16 ounces) dark sweet cherries, drained
1 can (11 ounces) Mandarin orange segments, drained
1½ cups miniature marshmallows
1 cup dairy sour cream
1-3 cup mayonnaise
2 cups cooked rice
Lettuce
Toasted coconut or toasted slivered almonds

Combine ham, pineapple, cherries, Mandarin oranges and marshmallows. Mix together sour cream, mayonnaise and rice. Toss together all ingredients. Serve on individual lettuce cups, allowing about 1½ cups per serving. Sprinkle coconut or almonds on top. 6 servings.

JULIENNE BEEF SALAD

3 cups cooked roast beef, cut in julienne strips
1 package (10 ounces) frozen peas, cooked and drained
1 cup sliced celery
2 tablespoons capers
½ cup diced Cheddar cheese, if desired
½ cup salad oil
2 tablespoons vinegar
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
¾ teaspoon salt
3 hard-cooked eggs
1 tablespoon finely sliced green onion
Lettuce
6 pitted, ripe olives
6 2-inch long carrot strips

Combine roast beef, peas, celery, capers and cheese. Chill. Mix together oil, vinegar, mustard and salt. Chop eggs finely and add to oil-vinegar mixture. Add onion. Chill. Just before serving toss meat mixture with vinegar-oil dressing. Spoon into individual lettuce-lined salad bowls or plates. Garnish with carrot strips inserted in ripe olives. 6 servings.

Condiment For Meats

Horseradish, a familiar condiment used with meats, provides the pungent flavor for this sauce. Use it hot for main dishes, cold for sandwiches, or cold meat plates.

HORSERADISH SAUCE

1 tablespoon corn starch
¼ cup fresh bread crumbs
1 cup milk
1 (4-oz.) bottle horseradish
½ teaspoon salt
Dash pepper

Mix corn starch and bread crambs in medium saucepan. Gradually stir in milk. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly until mixture comes to a boil and boils one minute. Remove from heat and stir in horseradish, salt and pepper. Reheat gently or chill. Makes 1½ cups.

Mint, Lamb Team Well

Mint flavor and lamb are perfect charcoal partners .Combine and heat a cup of mint jelly, ½ teaspoon whole cloves, 2 tablespoons Gravy Master seasoning and browning sauce, ¼ cup wine vinegar and dried mint to taste. Brush on lamb before grilling.

Eye-Appeal Adds Interest To Layered Cold Meat Sandwich Loaf

Relaxed is the hostess and intrigued are the guests when a frosted sandwich loaf is featured for a summer luncheon.

Conversation is stimulated along with appetites when the chilled loaf is sliced to reveal the layers of goodness beneath the smooth cream cheese icing.

Braunschweiger, "cold cuts" (ready-to-serve sausages) and ground ham provide the three layers of meaty goodness. Although elegant, the loaf is easy for the hostess as it's made the day before and chilled.

SUPERB SANDWICH LOAF

1 loaf (1½ pounds) white sandwich bread, unsliced
½ cup softened butter or margarine

Braunschweiger Filling

8 ounces Braunschweiger
½ cup chopped ripe olives.
¼ cup mayonnaise

Sausage-Cheese Filling

¼ cup grated American cheese
¼ cup drained sweet pickle relish
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
8 to 10 ounces assorted "cold cuts"

Ham Filling

8 ounces baked or "boiled" ham, ground or chopped
¼ cup finely chopped celery
½ cup chopped pecans
1 teaspoon prepared horseradish
½ cup mayonnaise.

Frosting

3 packages (8 ounces each) cream cheese
¼ cup milk
¼ teaspoon salt
Assorted garnishes

Trim crusts off loaf of bread. Cut lengthwise into 4 slices. Spread butter or margarine on one side of top and bottom slices and both sides of others. Blend ingredients for Braunschweiger filling and spread on buttered side of bottom slice of bread. Combine grated cheese and pickle relish. Spread on second slive and top with "cold cuts." Blend ingredients for ham filling and spread on third slice. Arrange slices in order. Add fourth slice, buttered side down. Wrap in waxed paper and refrigerate for several hours or overnight. Soften cheese with milk; add salt and mix well. Place loaf on serving plate and frost with cream cheese spread, reserving ¾ cup. Decorate loaf with cream cheese forced through a pastry tube. Garnish with pimiento and green pepper strips, sliced olives and pickles. Chill again before serving. 8 to 10 servings.

Franks Plus Wine Equals Party Fare

One on the easiest ways to discover how greatly wine improves the taste of food is to combine it with some everyday foods. The enhancement of their familiar flavors is immediately noticeable. A cook becomes an immediate success.

A casserole of baked beans and frankfurters is one good example. This is the kind of quickly prepare dinner that many young wives serve when they hurry home from work or community activities to find a hungry husband waiting.

Maybe he has brought guests with him. With a few extra touches, the beans and frankfurters can be turned into a very special dinner. California red dinner wine, such as a Burgundy, or a white dinner wine, like California Sauterne, will flavor the franks and provide a little extra sauce for the beans. There will still be enough wine in the bottle to serve with the meal.

In a situation like this, wine is doubly welcome — as the festive beverage and as a flavoring — to set the mood for an extra-special dinner.

WINE SAUCED BEANS AND FRANKFURTERS
(Serves four)

8 frankfurters
1-3 cup California red or white dinner wine
2 cans (1-lb) barbecue or baked beans
Prepared mustard
1-3 cup grated Cheddar cheese

Place frankfurters in saucepan. Add wine; cover and heat to simmering. Turn off heat and let stand a few minutes to plump up. Cut a lengthwise gash in top of each frankfurter. Turn one can of beans into casserole or baking pan. Arrange half the frankfurters on top, and add half the wine from cooking. Cover with remaining beans; place remaining frankfurters on top and pour on rest of wine.

Bake in moderately hot oven (375 degrees) until hot and bubbly, about 20 minutes. Brush slits in top of frankfurters with mustard and fill with cheese. Return to oven about 5 minutes, until cheese melts.

Main Dish With Super Nutrition

A super helping of nutrition in a tasty, inexpensive main-dish casserole — that's the idea that won Mrs. Karen Fulk the $1000 Nutrition Award in Pillsbury's recent Bake-Off. Just one serving of Souper Beef Supper plus a green salad gives a nutritious meal — for only 27 cents!

Normally, a panel of food experts judge all Bake-Off recipes. But this Nutrition Award, which is new this year — was selected by the computer. The first judging phase excluded all of the 100 final recipes which are not reasonally well-balanced in the protein, fat and carbohydrate categories. In the final screening, the computer scored Souper Beef Supper as the winner — because it is low in fat and carbohydrate, but high in protein.

In other words, this main-dish casserole contains three of the Basic Four Food groups: Meat Group from the ground beef; Dairy Products from the milk and eggs; Cereal Group from the pancake mix.

SOUPER BEEF SUPPER

1 lb. ground beef
1 cup Pillsbury Hungry Jack Buttermilk or Extra Lights Pancake and Waffle Mix
2 eggs
½ cup milk
1¼ cups (10½-oz. can) condensed onion soup

Sauce

Reserved condensed onion soup
1 package (5-8 oz.) Pillsbury Homestyle or Brown Gravy Mix
½ cup water

Oven 425 degree mark, 4 to 6 servings.

Lightly grease 1 or 1½-qt. shallow round casserole. Brown ground beef; drain. Season to taste. (Measure pancake mix by lightly spooning into cup and leveling off.) In medium mixing bowl, combine pancake mix, eggs, milk and 2-3 cup soup (reserve remaining soup for sauce). Beat until smooth. Place meat in prepared casserole. Pour batter evenly over meat. Bake at 425 degrees for 20-25 minutes until crust is golden brown. Prepare Sauce. Serve hot with Sauce.

Sauce: In small saucepan, combine the reserved onion soup, gravy mix and water Heat to boiling, stirring constantly.

With No Prior Experience, He Wins An Award

By WILL THOMAS
Post City Editor

When junior Serramonte High School student Steve Wechsler won this year's Golden Hammer award as the Industrial Arts Student of the Year, a school term of unique and immense achievement was being capped.

For Steve Wechsler, whose prowess with wood working has become known throughout the Jefferson High School District (Daly City-Pacifica) this year, never had received a single day's training in woodshop previously.

Yet, Wechsler gained recognition, even from trustees of the district, when they learned of his initial effort to provide Serramonte High School with an elaborate tool room.

Wechsler's instructor is Steve Scheppler — at least until the end of today's school day, when Serramonte releases classes for the summer — and it has been Scheppler who has guided Wechsler throughout his first year of skill development.

The student, whose only prior contact with the industrial arts department was a mechanical drawing class, converted bare concrete walls into a unique tool room and resource center.

It took a skill that must have been latent, because the result receives nothing but praise.

Furthermore it took time to add walls, doors and windows, construct built-in shelves, cabinets and closets, wire the lighting system and shape the holders of over 3,000 tools.

Each of the tools are silhouetted on a background of bright red and identified by name with dymo tape.

"Serramonte High School probably now has not only the most beautiful, but the most efficiently operated tool room in the state," one school official noted.

Scheppler said the success of the tool room and resource center "has created such interest that another class with the responsibility of operating the parts center for other students will be established."

Wechsler, who still spends nearly as much time as ever at the school shops, just completed a hanging lamp project in one of the four industrial arts classes he has been taking this year.

He said Scheppler talked him into taking them all.

Wechsler received his Golden Hammer award — which Scheppler made — at a recent student assembly.

MANY FIXTURES did not exist when Serramonte High School opened this year in Daly City. Among the missing features of the Industrial Arts Department was a tool room, ultimately constructed by Steve Wechsler, a junior student (left, above) who had no piror woodwork training or experience. Wechsler's industrial arts teacher is Steve Scheppler (right), who also made the Golden Hammer plaque Wechsler won as this year's Industrial Arts Student of the Year. Photo by Burton

PROMOTION DIRECTORS MEET—More than 70 members of the Northern California Promotion Directors Association met at Joes of Westlake to dicuss future promotional plans and budgeting. Pack Holds Inspection

An inspection of uniforms by Scoutmaster Bill Becker highlighted the recent monthly Cub Scout Pack 276 of South San Francisco. Pinewood Derby awards were presented to Tony Galletta, first place; Mike Vernal, second; and Mike Borelis, third; by John Kirkpatrick.

Scholarships Are Awarded By Teachers

Four students were winners of the annual Jefferson Union High School District Teachers' Association Scholarships, according to Emmett B. Tierney, the association's president.

Recipients were Ann Dryden of Terra Nova High School, Pacifica; Caroline Benedict, Oceana High School, Pacifica; Jeanne Wolff of Westmoor High School, Daly City; and Joanne Kendrick of Jefferson High School, Daly City.

There was no award to a student from Daly City's Serramonte High School, where there were seniors this year.

THREE DALY CITY WOMEN were among 30 Bay Area community leaders who participated in the first annual Facelle Consumer Institute, a unique forum created by the Facelle Company as a means of establishing "Open Door" communications between a major manufacturer and the consumer. Daly City women shown at one of three group seminars at Mark Hopkins Hotel were (foreground, first two on left, backs to camera), Mrs. Donald Bandoni and Mrs. Dennis Patackas and (top, extreme right) Mrs. Esther Nolan. Crashes Result In Arrests

Two men were jailed for drunken driving Thursday after their cars were involved in crashes in Daly City and San Mateo

Highway Patrolman Richard A. Wells said one of the suspects, Robert Lyons, 51-year-old San Francisco printer, was driving the wrong way on a Junipero Serra Freeway of-ramp when his car collided head-on with a sedan driven by Gerald Bear, 21-year-old salesman of 48 Palisades Drive, Daly City.

The collision, Wells reported, occurred at 11:45 p.m. on a blind curve on the southbound ramp that exits from the freeway onto Alemany Boulevard in Daly City.

Bear slammed on the brakes just before impact, the officer said, and probably saved himself and Lyons from serious injury. Lyons escaped unhurt.

Wells reported, and Bear sustained minor injuries, for which he was treated at Mary's Help Hospital. Wells said it was "miraculous" that injuries were not more severe in view of the fact that both cars were demolished.

Lyons was booked at county jail.

Also booked there was Vernon A. Sovia, 47-year-old San Jose car salesman who was involved in a three-vehicle accident on Bayshore Freeway in San Mateo an hour earlier.

Highway Patrolman Arthur H. Hilton said the accident happened when Sovia's sedan went out of control while passing a bus. It careened into the divider strip, the officer said, and somersaulted end over end.

In the confusion a pickup truck driven by Richard E. Harde, 31-year-old machinist of 141 West Poplar Street, San Matet, crashed into the rear of a coupe driven by James M. Lauder, 28, of Sunnyvale, an engineer and announcer for radio station KOFY.

300 Youths Try To Battle Way Into Full Cow Palace

Daly City police had their hands full at the Cow Palace Saturday night as an estimated 300 youths tried to battle their way into the already packed arena to watch a rock and roll music festival.

One officer—Roger Austin—had his badge torn from his shirt as he and five other officers tried to prevent the mob from breaking into the convention hall through a side entrance.

Police lieutenant Charles (Bud) Terry said his team responded to the Cow Palace shortly before 7 p.m. as crowds began pouring into the hall to watch the show. By 9 p.m. some 16,000 ticketholders were already inside and a huge number of young rock fans were shut out.

That's when some of the youths became angry, and tried to blitz through a side entrance.

Resources Pooled By Junior Colleges

A pace-setting plan to cut costs and broaden programs in career education by pooling resources of community colleges in San Francisco and San Mateo County was announced today.

Future projects also may involve College of Marin, it was indicated.

The initial joint venture would be between Skyline College in San Bruno and City College of San Francisco to train students for careers as inhalation therapists.

Dr. Louis G. Conlan, City College president, and Clifford G. Erickson, San Mateo Junior College District chancellor, said Skyline-San Francisco coordination of offerings in other career fields is also under way to provide increased services at reduced costs to the two districts.

City College students are taking cosmetology at Skyline, they pointed out, and San Mateo County students are attending City College for printing technology and engineering technology.

In addition, planning is under way for a joint venture in the aviation occupations field.

The inhalation therapy program would have Skyline and San Francisco students take general education courses on their "home" campuses, then join for secialized technical instruction in a classroom laboratory at Mary's Help Hospital, Daly City. Additional clinical studies would be provided at 10 cooperating hospitals in San Francisco and San Mateo counties.

Forty students, 20 from each college, could be accommodated.

Dr. Conlan and Erickson noted that an individual effort by either college in inhalation therapy instruction would initially cost $34,368 a year for 30 students. By sharing costs equally through interdistrict participation, however, 40 students would be served for the same total expenditure, or $17,184 per district.

San Mateo Junior College District trustees already have given their approval to the initial venture.

Details of the plan were worked out by Skyline's president, Philip C. Garlington, and his assistant for career education, John B. Bestall, with City College's vice president, Dr. Louis F. Batmale, and dean of instruction, Jules Fraden.

Dr. John Grasham, president of College of Marin, participated in the most recent planning session and expressed interest in involving Marin in future coordinated projects. Marin, San Francisco and San Mateo counties form one of the sections of the state created as a cooperative planning area for career education programs by the California community colleges office.

A TRADE SURVEY

A three-page questionnaire is being mailed to 2,000 San Bruno households by the city's Chamber of Commerce to conduct a retail trade analysis.

Survey chairman Jack Head said "the object of the survey is to inaugurate a program of improvement leading to better merchandising in our stores and improved community services.

"We feel that the people who live in and around our community are the ones who can best tell us what they want and what our city needs to become the best possible trading center," said Head.

Officers Catch Up With Theft Suspect

A man giving a Columbus, Ind., address was arrested this morning by San Bruno police and charged with four counts of burglary.

Booked is Edwin Gordon Brandenburg, 30. Listed as unemployed, he carried $35 in bills and $35 in change when apprehended.

According to Officer Tom Manning, he was on routine patrol along San Mato Avenue at about 3:25 a.m. today when he noticed a man coming out of ABC Music, 595 San Mateo Aveue.

Officer Manning said, "He saw me watching him. Then he began running toward the San Mateo and Kains avenues intersection." The officer gave pursuit in the patrol car.

The suspect cut back down Kains Avenue to Masson Avenue. Still in pursuit in the vehicle, Officer Manning radioed the suspect's position, as he saw the man go down an alley and attempt to climb a fence.

Manning left his vehicle to give chase and found fellow Officer Ed Mueller had the suspect at bay with his service revolver.

Routine checks of various stores along San Mateo Avenue following the booking showed that three other stores were broken into.

San Bruno Drugs, 601 San Mateo Avenue, had the front door pried open; San Bruno Hairstyles, 513 San Mateo Avenue, had the door's glass broken; 627 Barbershop, 627 San Mateo Avenue, had the entire door off its hinges, police said.

150 ENTER CHESS PLAY

More than 150 chess players have already sent in applications for the San Bruno Chamber of Commerce annual Independence Day chess festival at city park.

"Everyone is invited to the fourth annual San Bruno Open Air Chess Festival," said William Schneider who directed last year's festival.

Play will begin at 10 a.m. on July 4th. Chess festival applications and information may be obtained through the San Bruno Chamber of Commerce.

BETTER BUSINESS

By LORENE BEASLEY
Better Business Bureau

Many summer camps for children are currently advertising weight reduction programs for the oncoming summer vacation period. The National Better Business Bureau is basically concerned with reviewing advertising claims and is not in a position to evaluate such activities in terms of medical or health effectiveness.

The Bureau does not maintain a list of camps or directories, as it is not the policy of the NBBB to endorse products or services, but reputable camp associations may be consulted.

Although each camp of this type is different and must be judged on an individual basis, the approach used by most combines special diet, exercise, rest and educational regimes. Medication or food supplements are not prescribed as a general practice but under medical supervision many camps will carry out the particular medical program as instructed by the child's personal physician.

The following should be considered in the evaluation of such camps:

1. Determine whether the child is in need of a weight control program on the basis of a sound medical and-or psychological examination.

2. Determine whether the program of the camp, as outlined, meets the specifications of the physician or other specialist in the event a weight control regime is recommended. Specific weight loss within a limited period or based on a special diet should be carefully questioned.

3. On the basis of discussion with the camp representative, determine whether the camp provides proper dietary, exercise, recreational, medical and other supervision.

German Student Coming To Pacifica, Pat Bresnahan Visiting His Country

A German student, Sigrid Akkerman of Emden, Germany, is to arrive in Pacifica today as part of Volkswagen's annual Youth Exchange Program.

The foreign student will be an "exchange" with Pat Bresnahan, of Terra Nova High in Pacifica.

Volkswagen's program, started in 1962, is designed to build international understanding through the exchange of "young ambassadors." In its nine years 528 exchanges have taken place.

Each American student is sponsored by the authorized VW dealer in the student's home area while the German students are brought over by the 14 regional VW distributors in the United States. Pat's exchange with Sigrid Akkerman of Emden, Germany is sponsored by Ed Norris Volkswagen located at 6918 Mission Street in Daly City.

The 60 authorized dealers in the Reynold C. Johnson Company Volkswagen distribution area of northern California, northern Nevada and Utah are the most active dealer-distributor group in the Youth Exchange Program. One hundred and two exchanges from the three western-state area have taken place for this summer.

"The best way for people to understand each other is by communicating and Volkswagen's program allows our young people to do that in a very exciting way," is the way Ed Norris, president of Ed Norris Volkswagen explained his participation in the program.

"Youth exchange makes real 'young ambassadors' out of these students and they build many small, but strong bridges of international understanding," Norris added.

Miss Bresnahan is the second Jefferson High School District student to participate in the Volkswagen program. Laura de Ghetaldi visited Germany last year under Norris' sponsorship.

El Camino Students Win 24 Awards

The sixth graduating class of El Camino High School in South San Francisco proved to be the most productive, in academic standards, the school has ever had.

No less than 24 full or partial scholarships were awarded to members of the 1970 graduating class, according to head counselor Duane Albro. Close to $40,000 was donated to these collegiate hopefuls after a highly productive high school career.

"Since 1964 our seniors have been averaging about 20 scholarship awards per graduation," Albro noted. "It seems hard to believe but we have got close to $135,000 in grants in just six short years."

This year's awards included a National Merit Scholarship winner, a first-time grand winner in the Bank of America Scholastic Achievement Scholarship and various awards from business and industry.

"In the past we have had students win awards from other groups such as the Fannie & John Hertz Foundation for Engineering, state scholarships, various appointments to military academies, music and athletic awards and full scholarships to private colleges," Albro added.

This year El Camino has added a state spelling championship to its credit along with numerous awards from industry with a heavy emphasis going towards the award-winning El Camino Stage Band which just recently returned from a successful tour of Western Europe.

Registration Dates Given At San Bruno

With recreation activities slated to get under way on Monday, June 29, registration dates were announced for San Bruno.

For the two-week swim lesson session from June 29 through July 10, at San Bruno Park Pool, registrations will be held on Friday, June 26, and Saturday June 27 from 10 a.m. to noon at the War Memorial Recreation Center. Classes are held in the morning until noon and in the afternoon between 3 p.m. and 5:30 p.m. Also scheduled are night classes for adults and Senior Life Saving courses for the more advanced swimmers.

Ten neighborhood recreation programs will conduct registrations on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, June 24, 25, 26 from 10 a.m. to noon and from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Information on these neighborhood programs will be available in the neighborhoods the same week.

In addition to the widely accepted sports, cook-outs, day camping, dancing, dramatics, circus, trips, contests, carnivals and weekly themes activities, the special arts and crafts classes will again be offered.

Information will be available at the War Memorial Recreation Center starting today on special classes also slated to start on June 29. Included are such contemplated classes as tennis, archery, baton, ceramics and dance, for adult and teenager as well as for children.

'Icing Artistry'

A program for young ladies 11 years of age and older, is "icing artistry," sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Division.

The eight-week session runs through August 11, with sessions on Tuesdays 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., at the Arts and Crafts Center, 101 Peoria Street.
